WHO WE ARE

The National Consumers League (NCL) is the nation's oldest consumer advocacy organization. Founded in 1899, our mission has always been to promote and protect the interests of workers and consumers.

WHAT WE DO

Headquartered in our nation’s capital, NCL fights for consumers and workers on the issues that matter most. Our flagship programs—Fraud.org, the Child Labor Coalition, LifeSmarts, Script Your Future, and Consumers for Safe CBD—provide vital education for people of all ages and backgrounds and enable the public to voice concerns about the marketplace. From inside the Beltway, we advocate before Congress and federal agencies. And beyond, we build coalitions at the state, local, and national levels.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Join our community of supporters and allies! We welcome partners from many sectors and industries to join us in pursuing our vision of a fair and safe marketplace for all. Together, our voice is stronger. See page 16 to learn more about ways you can get involved.
Dear Friends,

As we sit down to pen our story of 2019, we cannot help but acknowledge how much the world has changed in the first months of 2020. With the coronavirus pandemic and its impact on the economy, our jobs, and nearly every aspect of our daily lives, we have been reminded time and again how important NCL’s work is.

We feel energized in our fight for universal health care, paid sick leave, recognition of the critical importance of vaccines in our lives, and sufficient funding for the federal agencies charged with protecting the health of our nation.

NCL is warning against coronavirus scams preying on consumers, as well as against the bogus health claims being made by unscrupulous marketers. We have called for worker protections and consumer-minded policies by airlines and other actors in the travel industry.

While so much has changed, the story of how we are working to fulfill our mission is fundamentally the same. In 2019, NCL celebrated our 120th anniversary. We spent the year honoring our rich history and the legacy of the women who founded NCL during the Progressive Era in the fight for consumer and worker protections.

In 2020, we are continuing to celebrate that NCL’s work today is #NeverMoreRelevant. Many of the issues faced by Americans then remain challenges even today: fraud prevention, fair wages and safe workplaces; honest product labeling; and quality health care for all citizens.

Today’s marketplace is increasingly complicated, and consumers need robust information to make good decisions, as well as allies in the fight for increased protections. We are proud to provide these services, but in today’s environment, your support is more crucial than ever.

The threat of fraud is real

Rapidly changing technology presents significant challenges to consumers and opportunities for unscrupulous actors. The global data breach crisis threatens the security of our sensitive information and exposes all of us to identity theft and increased risk of fraud.

How we help

NCL’s work in fraud prevention helps consumers make purchasing decisions safely, securely, and with confidence. Working with law enforcement and corporate and advocacy partners, NCL provides valuable information and resources to also help others fight fraud.

This year’s successes

+ Each month, 30,000 email subscribers received alerts from NCL’s Fraud.org on new trends in a variety of scams. Fraud.org has taken thousands of consumer complaints, and nearly 200 law enforcement agencies subscribe to its alert system.
+ We published our 100th issue of The #DataInsecurity Digest, reporting on news of data breaches and anti-fraud policy developments.
+ Fraud.org launched FakeRx, a new online action center to help consumers recognize the dangers of counterfeit medications and the risks of purchasing prescription drugs online.
+ Due to ongoing advocacy efforts by NCL staff, the Federal Trade Commission and state regulators continued to crack down on illegal pyramid schemes, including by actions taken against multi-level marketing companies LulaRoe (January 2019) and Advocare (October 2019).
Partner with us

NCL works with allies in consumer advocacy, industry representatives, and federal agencies to lead the fight against consumer fraud. Our Alliance Against Fraud is a coalition of partners who gather to network and collaborate on strategies in the fight against fraud. To learn more about the Alliance, see page 16.

Preventing another victim

Paige, 55, a Nashville wife, and mother of two, answered an employment ad for secret shoppers. Before sending payment to the scammers, she reached out to NCL. Consumer Services Coordinator James Perry was able to intervene, saving her $4,000.

“I want to let you know how much I appreciate how quickly Mr. Perry responded;” she later wrote in a note to NCL. “I consider myself to be a smart person, but when these things happen, it takes you for a loop. It was amazing to actually be able to speak to someone. I was lucky to get Mr. Perry, who said that I am not alone and that he was glad to help.”
OUR WORK

HEALTH & FOOD POLICY

Mind-boggling options

Americans are spending billions on rising healthcare costs and need access to affordable, effective medicines and high-quality care. And the food marketplace is a rapidly-changing melange of health claims and news about nutrition and food safety. It’s hard for the average consumer to sort out truth from hyperbole.

How we help

NCL’s health policy program advocates for safe and effective medicines and affordable, patient-centered health care, and our groundbreaking Script Your Future program helps consumers improve medication adherence and live longer, healthier lives. Our nutrition and food safety work aims to protect assistance programs, help consumers understand labeling and make informed decisions, and keep companies accountable for the claims made on food products.

NCL has been a great voice for combating vaccine misinformation. I know that I'm not alone because NCL is also spreading the word about vaccine safety and efficacy.

— Dr. Linda Fu, Pediatrician, Children’s Health Hospital

This year's successes

+ NCL launched a major initiative, Consumers for Safe CBD (4safeCBD.org), to warn consumers about the known and unknown risks related to unregulated CBD products, which have been flooding the marketplace in the form of lotions, oils, and pet and human foods.

+ NCL continued to educate consumers about the importance of safe drug disposal in the fight against the opioid epidemic and launched an online consumer action center to direct patients to safe online pharmacies.

+ NCL hosted a panel of medical professionals whose expertise is in vaccines and infectious disease on ways to address vaccine hesitancy and also testified before the U.S. Centers for Drug Control and Prevention in support of the pneumonia vaccine PCV-13.

+ NCL continues to defend SNAP, America’s nutritional assistance program, against cuts that would leave hundreds of thousands of citizens—especially children—without crucial support.

+ NCL advocates on the importance of portion control as a strategy for tackling the nation’s challenges with nutrition and obesity.

+ Nearly 4,000 future healthcare professionals and volunteers held 370+ events in 14 states across the country, directly counseling more than 12,000 patients, and delivering Script Your Future messaging to more than 1.5 million consumers.
Partner with us

NCL’s work in food and health education and advocacy depends on a high-quality network of focused government agencies, academic researchers, patient advocacy groups, health professional organizations, and industry representatives. Our Health Advisory Council is a membership-based group of organizations from across the health care spectrum that provide support for our work in health advocacy and education. Learn more about the Council on page 17.

Connecting with communities

Brooke Welch, a pharmacy student at the UTHSC in Nashville, participated in NCL’s Script Your Future Medication Adherence Team Challenge by counseling patients at a Diabetes Health Fair. As a Type I Diabetic herself, Brooke was uniquely qualified to share Script Your Future’s message with children struggling to embrace their condition. At the fair, she spoke with nearly 100 patients and parents while handing out tools and resources. One conversation stuck with her.

“I met and befriended a 15-year-old girl who was dealing with depression due to her illness. The insecurities that come with your teen years are hard for everyone and especially trying for those dealing with chronic conditions. In my one-on-one conversations with this young woman, I shared my story and showed her that being Type 1 isn’t something we have to hide. I wanted to help boost her confidence and show her that even though we may have mountains of scar tissue on our bodies from all the injections, we are still beautiful no matter what.”
A head-spinning marketplace

The consumer marketplace has become increasingly global, accessible, and complicated for each new generation. Today’s young adults face an array of choices that previous generations couldn’t have even imagined.

How we help

LifeSmarts is a free, national consumer literacy program that gives youth the skills needed to become consumer-savvy adults. It offers curriculum for teachers and scholarship opportunities for teens.

This year’s successes

+ In 2019, LifeSmarts celebrated its 25th anniversary—a quarter-century of educating young people to be consumer-savvy adults—at a special National LifeSmarts Championship event at Walt Disney World in Orlando.

+ Each year, nearly 150K students come into contact with LifeSmarts curriculum, whether in a classroom, afterschool, community service, or competitive setting.

+ LifeSmarts awarded scholarships or other honors to 40+ deserving youth.

+ LifeSmarts had active participants from all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

+ In 2019, LifeSmarts launched new projects with a variety of partners, including: curriculum on financial planning for retirement with AARP; on science and the environment with UL; on fraud with Western Union; and on drug safety with Johnson & Johnson.

+ The 2019 anniversary event was the biggest in LifeSmarts history, with 40 teams from across the country competing.

Through his personal finance studies, one of my students realized his mom had an ‘addiction’ to payday loans. LifeSmarts opened his eyes to this frightening reality. With his intervention, they were able to manage their finances effectively.

Partner with us

We work with national partners such as 4-H, FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America), and FCCLA (Family, Career and Community Leaders of America) to reach teens across the country. LifeSmarts also partners with State Coordinators from agencies and organizations including Jump$tart Coalitions, Councils on Economic Education, Better Business Bureaus, Extension Agencies, 4-H leaders, and state attorneys general. We are always seeking to forge new partnerships with agencies and organizations that serve teens or provide expertise in consumer education.

Paying it forward

Missouri LifeSmarts coach Linda Cumpton shared a story about a former competitor, Kerstin Peterson. When Kerstin went away to college, she brought LifeSmarts with her, hanging a poster containing LifeSmarts tips on a bulletin board in communal space on her floor.

“Kerstin took the opportunity to pass on her knowledge to peers who hadn’t benefitted from the program like she had,” said Cumpton, who was tickled LifeSmarts had such an impact on Kerstin that she wanted to share it with others. “She said the girls kept telling her how much they were learning from this display. How awesome to see LifeSmarts have this kind of ripple effect on her community.”

CHILD LABOR + WORKERS' RIGHTS

The reality for workers

America’s working families are under attack, with a stagnant minimum wage, skyrocketing healthcare costs, and woefully inadequate parental leave policies. And the child labor problem persists: an estimated 152 million young children are trapped in child labor around the world, many in full-time and hazardous jobs.

How we help

NCL is a long-time ally to labor, especially on issues where consumer and worker interests intersect. We are fighting to reduce exploitative child labor in the United States and abroad by raising awareness, advocating before agencies and Congress, and providing a forum for other nongovernmental organizations through our Child Labor Coalition (CLC).

This year’s successes

+ NCL backed the Pregnant Workers Fairness Act to protect the health and wellbeing of pregnant workers and their families.
+ NCL supported the Protecting the Right to Organize (PRO) Act, which preserves the right of workers to form a union and bargain for better wages, benefits, and conditions at their workplaces.
+ The CLC celebrated 30 years of advocacy on behalf of children in the United States and abroad. In June, its video “The ABCs of Child Labor,” passed 125,000 views on YouTube.
+ NCL and its allies worked to preserve $50 million in international child labor support at the U.S. Department of Labor from proposed Trump Administration cuts.
+ When administration officials threatened to lift a ban on the application of pesticides by children on farms, the CLC and partners fought successfully to maintain the ban. In December, the CLC and its allies achieved another victory when New York Governor Cuomo announced that the state would eliminate the use of chlorpyrifos, a pesticide that damages the neurological development of children.

“NCL is leading the effort to eradicate child labor in America by closing the loopholes that allow for children as young as 12 to work in dangerous occupations, like agriculture, with very few protections and very long hours.”

— Norma Flores López, COO, Justice for Migrant Women

“This represents my life. The father of the girl in this drawing is risking his life, as his little girl reaches the other side where she can find better opportunities to achieve her dreams. My parents come from afar, leaving everything and not looking back, and killing themselves at work and doing everything for me. It’s amazing how big a father’s love is.”

CONSUMER PROTECTION

Looking out for the little guy

Across many industries, regulatory rollbacks and corporate oligopolies often make the marketplace feel stacked against consumers. A pro-business environment has made many aspects of it feel particularly unfriendly, including the live event industry, the automotive industry, and in the contracts that govern many aspects of life. NCL is here to help.

How we help

NCL is leading the fight on a variety of fronts to defend hard-fought regulations that are in place to protect consumers' personal finances. In our backyard—the District of Columbia—NCL is a leader in securing new protections that have the potential to improve life for consumers nationwide.

This year’s successes

+ NCL has become recognized as a major player in advocating for airline passenger rights. In September 2019, NCL’s John Breyault testified before the U.S. House Aviation Subcommittee on the need for more action by Department of Transportation and the Federal Aviation Administration to protect airline passengers.

+ Victories in NCL’s work on live event ticketing included the opening of a bipartisan investigation by the House Commerce Committee and the settlement of the Department of Justice’s investigation of Ticketmaster’s anticompetitive ticketing practices.

+ In 2019, NCL pulled back the curtain on the latest “Dieselgate,” informing consumers about investigations quietly taking place into automobile manufacturers that tricked customers into thinking they were buying environmentally-friendly diesels that, in reality, were emitting far more harmful exhaust than advertised.

+ NCL celebrated victories in the fight against the hidden automatic renewal and mandatory arbitration clauses in consumer contracts.

+ In October, NCL released important new research examining pervasive defects in computer chips that put millions of consumers’ computers at risk of being hacked.

CONNECT WITH US

Become a partner

NCL is grateful to our many allies who join us to tackle some of the most challenging issues facing consumers and workers. There are many opportunities to partner with us, including:

The Alliance Against Fraud, a coalition of government, law enforcement, advocacy groups, and business united around the common goal of addressing the growth of fraud. Alliance meetings enable members to discuss new trends in fraud and share strategies for fighting back.

In 1989, NCL helped launch the Child Labor Coalition (CLC) to ameliorate the worst forms of child labor and to protect teen workers from health and safety hazards. Today, NCL co-chairs and coordinates the coalition of more than three dozen members, who meet regularly to synchronize efforts, plan events, and strategize on awareness-raising.

NCL’s Health Advisory Council brings together a diverse group of nearly three dozen health care professional groups and individuals across the spectrum to hear from expert panels, share perspectives, identify opportunities for collaboration, and provide support for NCL’s work in health policy and advocacy.
