

Anita's Dream

Dear My Aunt Anne & Digby

As I remember my childhood history is not easy to tell due to my image and dignity and value as a human being so on, but I am sharing with you as a part of my concerned family.

I remember when I was age of 3 my mum left me, and she was remarried with another man. My father also married another woman. It was not good. I was shared with my extended family. I grew up with my grandfather and grandmother who cared for me for a short period. Then in old age, my grandparents did not care for me properly and I was really abandoned. Slightly later I decided to leave my village near Pokhara and went to work as a servant girl to earn some money, so I could continue my education, which was my dream.

I continued both work as a servant and studying. It was a very difficult life but after some years I was able to pass SLC [Senior Leaving Certificate]. Around then someone advised me to apply to Siloam home in Tansen for further education. I met Uncle Pun and I was able to go to Siloam to stay and promised one year's support for school fees. One Australian young guys promised to support me, but it was suddenly discontinued. Finally, I was introduced to both of you Anne aunt and uncle Digby from my 12 class education living in Mahima Hostel until passing into Law School two years ago.

Now I am getting full support and able to continue my education as a lawyer. Not only that, but in everything whatever need in my life I am being supported by you.

I am so happy and hopeful of a bright future. My dream is to serve in this country for the underprivileged people after my education. I pray God will be at my side and I shall have a heart to support those girls who like me are in a distressed and abandoned condition. I want to be able to care for them and also to have a chance to influence the community perspectives that permit girls to become homeless and without hope.

With best regards,
Anita Sen
