

If you want to have a voice regarding what happens within 87% of the State of Nevada-

Here is your option

Write a letter to your congressional representative hoping that 10,000 other like minded people sent correspondence at roughly the same time regarding the same issue but not too similar to what you wrote for fear of appearing like a form letter. Furthermore, hoping that the Congressman will get enough interest as to present the issue to other representatives in Washington D.C. who have no understanding, interest or concern regarding events that transpire west of the Rocky Mountains.

Should a Federal Land Transfer come to fruition, you have the option of doing this Load up in your car, like 1,000 Montana residents did on January 30th 2017, drive no more than 3 to 5 hours to your State Capitol and demand that the will of the people be honored.

Which, do you think, has a greater impact?
