

Let's Talk: The Politics of Gender in 21st Century America

"Let's Talk" is about the conversation that is essential to address the challenges confronting men and women in our society today - culturally and politically. Are men and women living in two different worlds? Perhaps the better question is this: how do we prepare ourselves for an honest, productive conversation about what comes next? Our speakers will cover the impact of the Trump election on gender politics, the political response of both men and women to the #metoo movement. What are the opportunities for change politically and culturally?

Dan Cassino is a professor of political science at Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey, and the Director of Experimental Research for the PublicMind poll.

Yasemin Besen-Cassino (moderator) is a Professor of Sociology at Montclair State University and is the Book Review Editor of Gender & Society.

Patricia Matthew is associate professor of English at Montclair State University where she specializes in the history of the novel and British abolitionist literature.

Deborah Walsh is director of the Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP), a unit of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University.

Tova Walsh is an assistant professor in the School of Social Work and a faculty affiliate of the Center on Violence Against Women and Children at Rutgers University.

Thursday, January 18th
7:30 pm to 9:30 pm
Doors open at 7 pm

Pre-registration and ticket purchase ($10.00) online and at the door www.nfrpp.org.

Fairleigh Dickinson University
Dickinson Hall
Wilson Auditorium
140 University Plaza Drive
Hackensack, NJ 07601

Thanks to our co-sponsors:

