

GRAPHIC DESIGNER

Oaktree is an ambitious not-for-profit, with the mission of young people leading, demanding and creating a just world. As with any organisation, Oaktree needs a solid foundation.

One of Oaktree's key three goals is to empower young people to lead, demand, and create a more just world. We create programs and volunteering experiences that allow young people to realise their potential, and see just what they're capable of. In the Community Engagement portfolio, we're responsible for leading our work that engages with communities across Australia (as the name suggests). This includes fundraising and grassroots campaigning, digital communications, and managing partnerships with external people who support our work.

As a Graphic Designer, a typical day might look like:

- Producing online and offline communication material to engage supporters. Think excellent social media graphics, posters and fliers, and the occasional spicy political meme.
- Taking part in creative brainstorms to help us develop dynamic and innovative communications.
- Using Adobe Suite to edit images and create stimulating visuals for our website, social media channels and emails.
- Working with the Communications Team to develop a cohesive visual style for our content in 2019.
- Supporting our videographers with video editing.
- Updating our style and branding guides.

Who we are looking for:

- You possess a knack for creativity and an eye for detail.
- You're comfortable using programs such as Adobe Photoshop, InDesign and Illustrator.
- You're all across the latest trends in design.
 - You have the potential to learn and grow.

- You're capable of working in a fast-paced and agile environment.
- You're passionate about tackling social injustice.
- You have good communication skills and you're a team player.

We value will over skill, determination over degrees, and passion over years of experience. So go for it! Put your name forward.

What you will get out of it:

- Be part of Australia's largest, youth-run development non-profit and an amazing community of like-minded, passionate and capable young people.
- Cement your Oaktree legacy by changing the way thousands of Australians conceptualise the Oaktree brand.
- Plenty of opportunities to experiment with visual style and get real-time feedback on your performance.
- Contribute to our communications strategy, gaining insight into the thinking that goes behind the visuals.
- Gain access to training and development opportunities that will change the way you work.
- Expand your personal and professional network.
- Make an impact in Australia and globally in the movement to lead, demand, and create a more just world.

TIME COMMITMENT: 2 days a week | This is a voluntary position.

REPORTS TO: Celine Lau | Deputy Director of Communication

FOR QUESTIONS: c.lau@theoaktree.org

APPLICATIONS CLOSE: Sunday 24th of Feb 2019

APPLY AT: <https://oaktreeorg.typeform.com/to/Gmr0T1>