RJI FELLOWSHIP

A collaborative, educational environment for pre-K to 12 educators in Oregon

The RJI Fellowship is an 18-month program for racially, ethnically, or linguistically diverse educators across the Pre K-12 school system in Oregon offering monthly sessions where 30 educators can consistently come together, build community and relationships, and support each other to do work in their local communities. Fellows will participate in collaborative, place-based projects to create more racially affirming educational spaces.
