

Northwest Teaching for Social Justice
11th Annual Conference
October 20, 2018

Keynote: Winona LaDuke

"Teaching Indigenous Rights: A Pathway to Social Justice"

Longtime environmental justice activist, writer, and executive director of Honor the Earth.

LaDuke lives at the Ojibwe White Earth Reservation in Minnesota and is featured in the new full-length documentary, First Daughter and the Black Snake

8AM to 4:30 PM

Madison High School, Portland, Oregon

Sample Workshops:

The Future of School: Black Voices on Desegregation

Senate Bill 13: Tribal History/Shared History

Using Math to Calculate Arguments about Climate Change

We Are the Union: Forging Our Path Forward in the Aftermath of Janus

Accommodation Letters

Gender and Reproductive Justice

Sugar Subterfuge

Disrupting Misconceptions: Unleashing a Larger Truth

Telling the Untold Narrative: The Kahuku People's Struggle

Over 60 workshops in three different sessions!

Register Online Now: www.nwtsj.org

Lunch included. $35.00, $10.00 students

For more information, contact info@nwtsj.org

No one will be turned away for inability to pay; please let us know in advance if you need assistance.

Earn one semester hour credit from Lewis and Clark ($100)—register onsite,
PDUs from Oregon Writing Project,

Hosted by: Portland Association of Teachers, Washington Education Association, Oregon Writing Project at Lewis & Clark College, Puget Sound Rethinking Schools, Critical Educators Collective and Rethinking Schools

