For a Bugged Country

We're Recruiting!

We're desperate to recruit a new fantastic blokey-type for the next Federal election in May 2019 for the electorate of Mallee. Sheilas who can readily demonstrate the following attributes should not be discouraged from applying.

Notably, you'll be white, and damn proud of it and OK to sprout folksy Christian family values while realizing you're not expected live by any of the lofty morals that underpin your public preaching.

You'll demonstrate a strong, willing and hairy-chested character highlighted by a track record of misogyny, deception, and bullying supporting your born-to-rule mentality. Moreover, your willingness to do your fair share of frequent stand-over work across the electorate on behalf of Party officials is vital.

At all times you will be deeply aware that it is the many donors such as water thieves, fossil fuel companies and other public miscreants who benefit mostly from your attention to this widely-unknown, yet absolutely-core party objective.

Personally, you will be rewarded with off-campus opportunities for foreign travel to China and elsewhere, rooting and rooting your way across the international stage while everyone looks on with amazement and bewilderment.

The aim for this role is to undertake all your activities totally under the radar so that the general public remains entirely confused as to why you, and your colleagues (who are recruited under the same strict guidelines) got their jobs in the first place.

Essentially, you'll be a completely useless climate-denying nodder who is ready to go last on everyone's how-to-vote ticket at the next election.

And if you can always agree wholeheartedly with a bunch of uninspiring leaders, then you're our bloke (or Sheila).

The party will support all your endeavours to remain totally out of touch with everyday folk, especially women and young voters, so that with each successive election, you'll be regaled as the very best of yesterday's people while being tomorrow's candidate for Mallee in the heart of northwest Victoria.

Applicants should apply online immediately on anonymous dating, girly trolling or sugar-daddy websites.
