

"It was by the press that the morals of this country have been ruined, and it is by the press that they shall be restored."

THE NEW FEDERALIST

"Whoever would overthrow the liberty of a nation must begin by subduing the freeness of speech."

Issue 1

Newspaper of LaRouche Independent Candidate for U.S. Senate Diane Sare

May, 31, 2021

Schiller Institute Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites Demands Coordinated Action

Create a Global Health Security System Now

Special to New Federalist
NEW YORK, May 16—An international committee created by Schiller Institute chairman Helga Zepp-LaRouche has demanded immediate action by the world's leading nations now to prevent potentially hundreds of millions of new deaths in the ongoing global COVID-19 pandemic.

In advance of the Global Health Summit on May 21 in Rome, Italy, Zepp-LaRouche, and the Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites, released a statement calling for industrialized nations to put aside their differences and come together to ensure that every nation has its own fully modernized health care system. "This means infrastructure for public health, and for medical care delivery at modern standards, to all populations. One model for this is the U.S. Hill-Burton Act ("Hospital Survey and Construction Act of 1946") whose principle was to state how many hospital beds per 1,000 residents must be in each locality (at that time, 4.5), and deploy accordingly to build them, including modern equipment and staff."

Much Worse than Reported

According to recent studies by the "London Economist" and on-the-ground sources in India, the currently reported COVID-19 death toll of 3.3 million worldwide is likely significantly lower than the actual number, and we are in a race against time to halt the spread of the virus before new strains outflank existing vaccines. In India, for example, only deaths which occur in hospitals are counted, and since two thirds of that nation's 1.4 billion people live in rural areas, it is estimated that the daily death toll is 3-4 times higher than the reported 4,000 deaths per day. Alarming sightings of dozens of corpses floating in the Ganges River indicate the magnitude of the problem. In many poor countries where health care systems are overwhelmed, or simply don't exist to begin with, it is impossible to do mass testing or get an accurate count of the deaths. Even in more affluent nations, according to an article in the May 11 London Economist, "Tracking COVID-19 excess deaths across countries" the number of "excess deaths" i.e. deaths above the normal baseline number of deaths in a given period, is higher than the official count of deaths attributed to COVID-19, indicating a probable combination of more deaths due to the virus, as well as other deaths related to conditions created by the pandemic, like lack of space in hospitals, as well as economic and social factors.

Diane Sare, LaRouche independent candidate for US Senate in New York, endorsed the Committee's call and its draft plan specifying needed action, warning her fellow citizens that vaccinations alone will not defeat this pandemic. "We in this country also suffer from a lack of a competent health care system," Sare said, "and this lack has already killed too many people and will kill more." But the crisis is acute in places like India and Africa, she said, blaming decades of policies of deliberate under-development for leaving the poor unprotected. "This is a policy of deliberate genocide, supported by the Wall Street bankers and their ilk around the world," Sare continued. "We must not stand idly by and watch people die. New

Credit: US Navy

U.S. Coast Guard, New York Police Department and New York Fire Department assets, provide security escort for USNS Comfort's arrival into New York Harbor to assist in the COVID-19 response, March 30, 2020.

York will not be safe from new and deadlier strains of this disease, and new diseases to come, unless we build, as Mrs. LaRouche demands, a global health security system that leaves no one unprotected and without healthcare.."

Sare pointed to the rapid conversion of the Javits Center in Manhattan, and the multiple field hospitals built by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, as well as China's construction of several 1000-bed modular hospitals built in un-

Please turn to page 2

DIANE SARE

Independent Candidate for U.S. Senate

Why I Am Running For U.S. Senate

by Diane Sare

My name is Diane Sare, and I am running as a LaRouche Independent candidate versus the favorite son of Wall Street, whose loyalties lie not with the people of the United States, but who serves big money, big tech, big pharma and the British Empire, namely Chuck Schumer. I am running as an independent because, as George Washington warned in his Farewell Address, the party system has failed to serve the needs of the people of this Republic. Both parties have become slaves of the same interests which own Senator Schumer. I intend to lead this nation in a new direction, in keeping with the Preamble of our carefully conceived, and hard fought, United States Constitution, which says that all policy must promote the General Welfare of all people, not the monied class whom Chuck Schumer serves.

I am running, as that great New Yorker Franklin Roosevelt once ran for President, against the interests of Wall Street, and for a new deal for the people of this state and country -- not the murderous bank bailout scheme known as the "Green New Deal" which Schumer supports, but rather for a just, new world economic order that refuses to place a monetary value on human life.

What Qualifies Me

I believe I am uniquely qualified to fight for the true interests

Please turn to page 3

P-5 Summit Urgently Needed To Avert Thermonuclear War

Special to New Federalist
NEW YORK, May 13—Fresh off the Schiller Institute's May 8 international video conference "The Moral Collapse of the Trans-Atlantic World Cries Out for a New Paradigm," Schiller Institute founder and President Helga Zepp-LaRouche used her May 12 weekly webcast to renew her urgent call for a summit meeting among the five permanent members of the UN Security Council, the so-called "P-5" to halt what she and a growing number of world leaders see as an immediate threat of general thermonuclear war.

Change Course Now

"The overall situation is so explosive," Zepp-LaRouche told her audience, "that if we do not change course, we could be headed towards war, only this time with nuclear weapons.... That is why at our recent May 8 conference we reiterated our support for Russian President Vladimir Putin's call for an urgent summit of the P-5 nations ... to find solutions to the crisis based on cooperation, and not confrontation." In her webcast, Zepp-LaRouche reviewed the many, interconnected dangers facing mankind today: of war; of famine, created by sanctions and deliberate refusal to fund development; of an out-of-control Covid pandemic, as in India, and many other nations lacking modern health care systems; and of the devastating effects of growing inflation, which destroy people's life-work and the ability of families to survive, the which is a symptom of a breakdown crisis of the trans-Atlantic financial system.

Zepp-LaRouche placed special emphasis on the very real danger of nuclear war — which could be unleashed either by intent of rabidly Malthusian ideologues among the Anglo-American elites, or by blunders and miscalculations of governments blinded by their own arrogance in seeking geopolitical advantage, under conditions of escalating tension on all fronts.

"At our May 8 conference, there was an important discussion about the immediacy of the danger of a nuclear war," Zepp-LaRouche said. "A nuclear war can happen either by design — and there are studies and proposals calling for this from the Atlantic Council, the Rand Corporation, and others — or it can also occur because of the overall level of tension between the U.S., the U.K., and Europe on one side, and Russia and China on the other side. The tensions are becoming so great that any one of many hotspots around the world could, by accident or miscalculation, get out of control and lead to a chain of escalation," she warned. All Crises Can and Must Be Resolved Zepp-LaRouche stressed that none of the grave crises facing mankind can be resolved unless they are all resolved. To do that, requires a total bankruptcy reorganization of today's globally dominant trans-Atlantic financial system and its replacement by a New Paradigm built on Classical principles in culture, politics, and economics. She stressed that the May 8 Schiller Institute conference offered a proof of principle that people can be mobilized by an appeal to the higher humanity which resides in all people. She pointed to the dialogue which occurred during the two panels, which demonstrated a willingness to grapple with profound ques-

Please turn to page 2

Schumer: Dope NY, Then the Nation

Special to New Federalist
NEW YORK, May 7—Just in time for April Fools' Day, Gov. Andrew Cuomo signed legislation March 31 establishing an "Office of Cannabis Management" in the State of New York, making New York the 15th state to legalize recreational marijuana use, supposedly only among adults.

The real author of the move to open the path toward greater addictive behavior is our senior U.S. Senator Chuck Schumer (D), who has made a personal crusade of pushing the so-called "Marijuana Freedom and Opportunity Act" through a Congress whose already dim wits are further dulled by increasing pot use among members and staff.

In the wake of the New York move, Schumer, in total defiance of the actual facts, told "Politico", "The legalization of states worked out remarkably well...they were a great success. The parade of horrors never came about, and people got more freedom. And people in those states seem very happy."

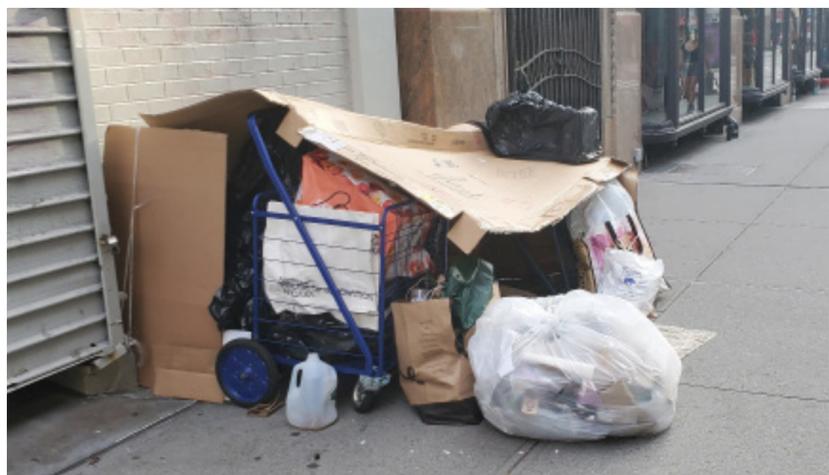

Diane Sare, the LaRouche Independent candidate running against Wall Street's favorite Senator, denounced the legislature's action as

"selling our younger generations into the physical and economic slavery of drug addiction," and urged municipalities and local governments to take advantage of a provision of the state bill that allows them to opt out of setting up drug distributing dispensaries, as long as they act before December 31. "The whole law needs to be repealed," Sare said. "We need our people to be clear headed, not pot-heads, if we are to get through the current pandemic and related crises."

Economic Opportunities?

The official New York State press release lies that this move "has the potential to create significant economic opportunities for New Yorkers and the State. Tax collections from the adult-use cannabis program are projected to reach $350 million annually, (which is less than 3% of the projected annual deficit) Additionally, there is the potential for this new industry [sic] to create 30,000 to 60,000 new jobs across the State." -- and, of course, women and minorities are supposed to make up a significant percentage of the new owners of this mis-named "industry."

Please turn to page 4

AP photo/Mary Altaffer

Sare Commissions Report on Housing Crisis

LaRouche independent candidate for US Senate - N.Y., Diane Sare, has commissioned a report on what she calls "the disgraceful state of housing" in New York City and the state, to allow her to formulate policy solutions to address the problem. Almost 90 years ago, a great New Yorker, President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared "one third of the nation was ill housed, ill clothed and ill fed." According to Sare, "Many of our citizens live in housing that is at least as bad as it was then, or, in some cases even worse. The Senator from Wall Street, Chuck Schumer, is only interested in protecting the financial interests which benefit from putting millions of New York State residents from the Bronx to Brooklyn to Buffalo in substandard public or private housing, where repair tickets can remain open for years. Decent affordable housing must be made available to all, even at Wall Street's expense."

DIANE SARE Independent Candidate for U.S. Senate

Paid for by Sare for Senate

“Coincidence of Opposites” Committee: Stop Imperial “Population War” Against Syria, Yemen

Special to New Federalist
 NEW YORK, April 24—The Schiller Institute is circulating an urgent response from its founder, Helga Zepp-LaRouche, to Apostolic Nuncio to Syria, Cardinal Mario Zenari, who has alerted the world to the acute humanitarian emergency that has been deliberately imposed upon Syria, in the aftermath of nine years of war, through murderous “sanctions” measures imposed by the U.S. State Department, and irresponsibly supported by several other governments, most emphatically, the British government.

In her weekly Schiller Institute webcast discussion April 14, Zepp-LaRouche demanded that the world come to the aid of the Syrian people. As Cardinal Zenari has stated, more than 90% of Syrians are below the level of extreme poverty, and many are in danger of losing their lives due to famine. The last decade of war, the unjust sanctions, and the COVID-19 pandemic have created an absolutely intolerable condition of suffering for the Syrian people.

“I fully endorse the work of the Committee and Mrs. LaRouche in bringing these issues to the attention of decent people everywhere,” said Diane Sare, LaRouche Independent candidate for the US Senate, challenging Democrat Sen. Chuck Schumer. “My opponent has supported all of these wars, and their murderous consequences. Let the people pass judgment on the immorality of such leadership.”

Creative Commons/Centro Televisivo Vaticano, Peter Bio; Schiller Institute
 Helga Zepp-LaRouche, Schiller Institute Founder, and Cardinal Mario Zenari, Apostolic Nuncio to Syria, warn of deadly economic sanctions. A girl with signs of malnutrition is treated in a small clinic.

American Aggression

Supporting Zepp-LaRouche’s assessment was former Virginia State Sen. Col. Richard Black (USM-retired), who spoke at a March 21 conference sponsored by the Institute entitled: “The World at a Crossroad: Two Months into the New Administration,” on the panel, “Southwest Asia: Pivot for War, or Peaceful Development with the New Silk Road?” “I’m a retired colonel, who served in uniform for 32 years,” said Col. Black. “I love my country. I flew 269 combat missions in Vietnam as a Marine helicopter pilot, and I crash-landed once after machine-gun fire cut my flight controls.

Afterwards, I made 70 combat patrols as a ground air controller for the 1st Marine Division. I was in intense, fierce combat during almost the entire time, and I was wounded, and my radiomen were both killed beside me.

“So, with that background, let me say that I’m appalled by the indecency of American aggression toward Syria.... We’ve invaded sovereign countries like Serbia, Iraq, Libya, Yemen, and Syria, leaving them all in smoldering ruins.

“Does the ‘rules-based order’ not prohibit wars of aggression? Did we not prosecute Nazis at Nuremberg for just such actions? What ‘rules’ make wars of aggression crimes for Nazis, but not for us?”

“We’re told that we’re fighting a ‘War on Terror,’ but we’re not. We’re closely allied with terrorists, like al Qaeda, in an endless quest to destroy Arab civilizations throughout the Middle East. Few Americans can even name all of our wars: Serbia, Iraq, Libya, Syria, Yemen, Somalia, Ukraine. None of them attacked us; we attacked all of them...”

Mass Starvation

Similar horrors confront Yemen, where the agonizing reality of hunger is conveyed in the powerful documentary, “Hunger Ward,” referred to by the head of the World Food Program, David Beasley, who saw children dying before his very eyes in the hospital, and he was unable to help.

There is nothing “humanitarian,” Zepp-LaRouche stated, in starving children and shutting down hospitals and medical care based on fraudulent narratives cooked up by British and American regime-change advocates, in and out of government. This must stop and the Caesar Sanctions must be lifted. And all the members of the U.S. Congress who do not lift these sanctions make themselves complicit in every death that occurs in the region.”

Zepp-LaRouche continued: “This has reached the point where either the world wakes up and we start to remedy this, or we will not survive, because of our own moral failure as a human species. I call on you: Work with the Schiller Institute. Work with its Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites, which is working to get aid programs and reconstruction. I appeal to you: Get in contact with the Schiller Institute and respond to the call by Cardinal Zenari.”

New Committee

The Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites is an initiative conceived by Zepp-LaRouche following the death of George Floyd in Minnesota last May. The Committee’s purpose is to use the principle of “the coincidence of opposites,” as developed by fifteenth-century thinker Nicholas of Cusa. This seeks to discover not only a higher resolution of perceived conflict by appealing to the common aims of mankind that supersede cultural, geographic, ethnic, language and ideological distinctions. The Committee emphasizes that Martin Luther King’s method of “creative, nonviolent direct action” should become a primary tool of international diplomacy, and that this could be done, using the present condition of global pandemic, through the creation of a “world health platform.”

This encompasses not merely vaccines or medication, but hospitals, water purification plants, advanced nuclear power plant design, agricultural equipment, transportation and education, and schools built and engineered by a health extension service that combines the Army Corps of Engineers with large numbers of unemployed American youth. This would create the basis to transform world military production, using advanced machine tool techniques, to become non-weapon, “nonviolent” industrial production that is designed to end poverty and war, not extend it.

To find out more about the Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites, contact them at (917)475-8828.

Schumer Tries to Straddle the Fence

U.S./NATO Gaza Hypocrisy Is Obvious to the World

Special to New Federalist

NEW YORK, May 20—The nation of China, together with Norway and Tunisia, attempted to get a Security Council meeting on May 14 on de-escalating the crisis in Israeli-occupied Gaza, but the U.S. opposed it. Already on May 10, at the first emergency consultation on the situation, the Security Council was ready to issue a statement, but it was stopped by the U.S. saying it wanted to give “diplomacy” time to let things wind down. And then again on May 12, at a second emergency session of the UNSC, the members were ready to release a media statement and it was again stopped by the U.S. The Chinese UN representatives who now chair the Security Council are working overtime to try and get UN action on the situation, as are the French and others, but the U.S. is putting up roadblocks, and President Joe Biden has just agreed to another $735 million weapons deal with Israel, which many observers see as critical to keeping the Israeli war hawk Benjamin Netanyahu in power.

As the Palestinian and Israeli death tolls mount, the crisis casts a spotlight on the role of New York Senator Chuck Schumer (D), the Senate majority leader who has long been regarded as a loyal spear carrier for the Israeli lobby in this country, and who regularly receives high marks from such nefarious agencies as the American Israeli Political Action Committee (AIPAC) for his service. LaRouche independent candidate challenging Schumer for his Senate seat, Diane Sare, denounced the Senator for trying to straddle both sides of the fence, and refusing to clearly denounce Netanyahu’s murderous actions.

Who’s In Control Here?

When President Biden told Netanyahu on May 19, on a phone call, that the United States expected a significant de-escalation today on the path to a cease-fire,” Netanyahu’s response, in the form of a Twitter-dropping, was: “I especially appreciate the support of US President Joe Biden, for the right to self-defense for the State of Israel. I am determined to continue this operation until its goal is achieved, to restore peace and security to you, the citizens of Israel.” So, when Netanyahu, who has been unable to even form a government because of his domestic political weakness, can not only secure the $735 million arms deal, but also ignore the American President literally hours later, it indicates that a drive for expanding the war, in the name of a higher level strategic objective is in play.

As NATO increasingly defines itself as a globalized military strike force, policeman, and international “park ranger for a climate-controlled human race,” the financial centers of the City of London and Wall Street have appropriated population war as a primary tool in their arsenal. In the current crisis, a provocation involving a real estate dispute in East Jerusalem was opportune as the pretext for subsequent murderous actions intended to escalate, either immediately or soon, into hopelessly, lethal carnage, in the midst of a pandemic. What the potential costs to the human race might be is obscured by the usual rhetoric of both sides.

Israeli bombing of Kahn Yunis, a civilian city in the Southern Gaza Strip, May 2021. Inset: Sen. Chuck Schumer (D) NY

The obstructionism by the United States in the Security Council, was blasted by Chinese Foreign Ministry Spokeswoman Hua Chunying, who said that U.S. delays would lead to more violence, which it, in fact, has. “The U.S. claims to care about the human rights of Muslims,” Hua said in her briefing on May 14. “However, as the recent Israel-Palestine clashes swept a large number of Palestinian Muslims into war, the U.S. turned a blind eye to their suffering and even risked universal condemnation to stop the Security Council from speaking up on this. In the meantime, the U.S., together with a handful of its allies like the U.K. and Germany, held a meaningless meeting on the so-called Xinjiang-related issues falsely in the name of the UN based on lies and political prejudice. What is the true intention behind this political farce? The U.S. should know that the lives of Palestinian Muslims are equally precious.” This has exposed the U.S. and NATO hypocrisy of playing the “Xinjiang Uighur Muslims card” against China.

So far, over 200 Palestinians have been killed, including 61 children. Eighteen hospitals have been destroyed or damaged, including centers for COVID-19 vaccinations and testing. One Israeli woman told the publication Executive Intelligence Review: “It feels hopeless and appalling - as always an Israeli provocation in the service of maintaining Bibi in power that the Hamas serves with the rockets. The Hamas also gain international attention and one can understand their exasperation with the Israeli appalling treatment of Palestinians and the blockade of Gaza but I am not sure the cost of their rockets into Israel [paid] in Palestinian lives is the best they can do under a terrible Israeli occupation.”

Chuckie on the Hot Seat

In the face of this disproportionate Israeli bombing campaign, Senator Schumer told reporters, “I agree with the statement put out by Senators Murphy and Young last night in its entirety. I want to see a ceasefire reached quickly and mourn the loss of life.” The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Chris Murphy (D-Conn) and Sen. Todd Young (R-Ind), calls for a ceasefire between Israel and Hamas. Schumer has added his name along with 28 other Senate Democrats. Schumer went on to say, however, “Israel has the right to defend itself from Hamas’ rocket attacks, in a manner proportionate with the threat its citizens are facing.”

He has not publicly commented on the arms deal and whether it should go forward. Sources, however, say that Schumer has privately given assurances to the Israeli lobby that he will make sure that it goes through. Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-Vt), breaking with the Biden Administration, has now said he will fight to block the arms sale.

Diane Sare, who is challenging Schumer in 2022, denounced his cowardice and said, “Of course the shelling and bombing must stop immediately, from both sides, and we must cease arming Israel to be used as a geopolitical hand grenade, but that is not enough. The United States must not be an accomplice to British-orchestrated perpetual war and geopolitics in Southwest Asia. This is another reason why the Five permanent members of the UN Security Council must meet, and then, in dialogue with the Palestinian and Israeli leaders work out a two-state solution, which also includes a commitment for urgently-needed reconstruction of the West Bank and Gaza, embedded in a comprehensive development plan for the region, involving nuclear power, and water management, especially desalination and large-scale irrigation projects to make the deserts bloom. Only if the children of both the Palestinians and the Israelis have a secure and prosperous future can peace be attained. Lyndon LaRouche’s 1975 ‘Oasis Plan’ for the peaceful cooperative development of the region, would be a good starting point.”

P-5 Summit Urgently Needed

Continued from page 1

tions, and to the role of the Schiller Institute in creating a forum for thinking through and building support for solutions.

Diane Sare, LaRouche independent candidate for U.S. Senate in New York, and a participant in the May 8 conference, said that her fellow citizens, blinded by the fake media, “are sleepwalking into this crisis. They urgently need to wake up, and join me in the fight for a real solution to what is an existential crisis. There is no coming back from a thermonuclear war once it happens.”

To view the Conference: The Moral Collapse of the Trans-Atlantic World Cries Out for a New Paradigm: <https://bit.ly/2Sa7vJu>

Credit: Bob Baker
 Assembling medical supply donations for the Committee for the Coincidence of Opposites pilot aid shipment to Mozambique, May 18, 2021. From left to right: Bob Baker, Dr. Walter Faggett, Marcia Merry Baker, and Dr. Andres Jimenez.

Global Health Security System

Continued from page 1

der two weeks, as evidence that such a mobilization among industrialized nations acting in concert, could put a halt to the rising death toll in many nations, and create conditions where future new viral outbreaks do not become pandemic. “Rather than wasting resources on phony ‘green’ projects, millions of Americans could be trained and employed to produce the infrastructure needed, both in the United States and abroad,” Sare stated.

A Plan of Action

Under the heading “Global Health Infrastructure” the Committee calls for the following:

Hospital systems. There is currently a huge deficit of hospital beds. Today’s world total of 18.6 million beds needs to be nearly doubled to some 35 million beds, along with staff and equipment. This calculation is based on the metric set in the post-World War II U.S. “Hill-Burton Act,” for 4.5 beds per 1,000 residents in the county, in order to provide treatment for both routine and surge circumstances....

Health corps. Vast numbers of doctors, nurses, public health and related staff, including technicians, pharmacists, veterinarians, dietitians, administrators, etc, are required worldwide. Meeting the need demands the spectrum of training, ranging from many more teaching hospitals, to thousands of youth-training programs for invaluable community health service, beginning with today’s pandemic emergency.

Water and sanitation. One fully-equipped hospital bed requires plumbing for at least 110-120 gallons of water per day. Every nation must have adequate clean water and sewerage. Today more than 2 billion people lack access to safe water, sanitation, or both. The deployment of temporary sanitation facilities (which could be mass-produced and then distributed) will be a stop-gap measure, while durable improvements in infrastructure are constructed....

Science and technology. There must be an expansion of both basic research and development of technologies against diseases, including those affecting animals and plantlife. This is best done by collaboration among R&D institutions throughout the world....

“Food is medicine.” David Beasley, Executive Director of the World Food Program, reported May 7, 2021 that 9 million people died from starvation in 2020, more than the official death toll of 3.24 million from COVID-19. “Food is the best vaccine against chaos,” he stressed, early in the pandemic.... There are over 270 million people in acute need of food, and another 600 million with food insecurity.

The statement concludes, “The Global Health Summit is the responsible representation of the world population in this moment of a crisis of Biblical dimensions. This meeting must not end without a decision to start a process of worldwide international cooperation for a crash program to build a modern health system in every single country on the planet, including the necessary infrastructure to sustain that system.”

“I urge my opponent, Chuck Schumer, and all political leaders in this country to get behind this effort.” Sare said, stating that she intended to make this fight a central feature of her growing campaign.

(For details, see, “LaRouche’s ‘Apollo Mission’ To Defeat the Global Pandemic: Build a World Health System Now!” from April 11, 2020, by the Schiller Institute: www.schillerinstitute.com.)

Music Is the Language of Peace

Minister Farrakhan Offers Contribution for Peace on His 88th Birthday

By Dennis Speed

NEW YORK, May 19—The greatest gifts are often the least expected. As the British-manipulated “Palestine-Israeli conflict,” ignited by events in East Jerusalem, threatens to metastasize into even regional war, and saner souls rush to try to stop it; as the Chinese government excoriates the United States, Great Britain and others for the UN “save the Uighurs” clown-show they are putting on before the same UN assembly they forced to comply with the Afghanistan and Iraq “preventive wars” 20 years earlier; as the financial non-regulators of the FDIC, SEC, OCC etc. refuse to point out the danger of a Wall Street stock market bubble, whose $49 trillion-plus valuation is greater than the ostensible GDP of the US, China, Japan and Germany combined; as the maenads, witches and warlocks of the Atlantic Council hold forums entitled “Threaten Decisive Nuclear Retaliation,” with smiling, journalists announcing, “And in this episode, the recommendation is, that NATO threaten decisive retaliation!”—in the middle of even this, it is possible to think like Beethoven.

Schiller Institute founder Helga Zepp-LaRouche pointed to the strategic significance of the cultural gift offered to the world by Nation of Islam leader Minister Louis Farrakhan on his 88th birthday, May 11. His premiere of the video of his 2002 performance of the Beethoven Violin Concerto, Op 61, done in part in homage not only to Beethoven, but to his musical inspiration by the late violinist Jascha Heifetz, whom he met as a child of 9 years old in the 1940s, was an act of will, as much as it was an act of love. The “coincidence of opposites” metaphor represented in that performance, and its seeming impossibility, given that Farrakhan, then at the age of 68, learned it in less than a year—something that his teacher told him it would take him ten years to do, at least—are the standard of “Intellectual Beauty” that must need be attained for the world to survive the otherwise insoluble crisis facing it right now.

Humanity Must Come First

For example, the combination of productive resources to be marshalled, and scientific, medical, and technical breakthroughs, logistical miracles, and cultural epiphanies that will have to be accomplished, just for humanity to survive, will force us to throw all dysfunctional axioms into the toilet. Either whole parties or factions, like the German Greens, various Israeli factions, and treasonous sections of the Republican and Democratic Parties, will go, or whole nations, even sections of the planet, will go. Humanity will come first, or humanity will go, perhaps even to the last person on the planet. Lyndon LaRouche’s philosophical association, the ICLC, requires intellectual hegemony in the trans-Atlantic world, such that the once-bright spark of genius, expressed in Beethoven and the American Revolution, can rekindle an intellectual fire that can illuminate the already-present solution: the Belt and Road Initiative/World Land Bridge. No “economic reform” will be adopted unless people of the trans-Atlantic sector once again embrace the scientific and moral necessity for an ever-increasing number of people on this planet, and beyond.

In the May 8 Schiller Institute video conference, the philosophical method of Cardinal Nicholas of Cusa, as he developed that method through the intellectual and spiritual effort required of him in his 1438-40 organizing of the Council of Florence—the method whose footprints are contained in his “Of Learned Ignorance”—was not only on display—it was “performed.” It is the aesthetic principle, and method, that was performed in the interplay of the speeches, questions, answers, and sometimes instantaneous intellectual shifts, that started and delighted several of the speakers and many participants, was what had to be presented to the world.

Can You Hear It?

It is by providing an occasion for that method to be performed, as it was otherwise performed in the Beethoven Violin Concerto as Farrakhan approached his task, that we must seek to present, as a method to be apprehended by the audience, the opportunity to participate by being ennobled to really hear what is being said or sung.

Thus people are able to confront the terrible reality and overcome it, because they leave the conference better than when they arrive. That is the true revolution.

There were several times when Presidents, such as Abraham Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt, or John F. Kennedy performed this function for the American people. Ronald Reagan did so twice: once on March 23, 1983, with his vanguarding of the Strategic Defense Initiative designed by Lyndon LaRouche, and again on January 26, 1986, at the time of the Challenger space shuttle explosion. But there definitely exists a capacity within all people to at least respond when Cusa’s method of the “coincidence of opposites” is invoked.

The Farrakhan performance had 6400 views during the “live” stream, with 8800 immediately after, making it perhaps the most successful Classical musical virtual event in the United States this year of the pandemic—a time when Classical music and musicians have been hit very hard. Also, most of that audience was witnessing their first Classical music concert.

As we consider the dangers of the present circumstance, let us, as Lyndon LaRouche once said, look at the earth from one thousand miles above it, and ten thousand years on either side of the present, and consider how it is that mankind should think about what we must do right now.

Nation of Islam leader Minister Louis Farrakhan in a 2002 performance of the Beethoven Violin Concerto, Op 61

Why I Am Running

Continued from page 1

of the people of our state and nation because, besides being a political leader, I am a trained classical musician. I was the founder and co-director of the Schiller Institute New York City Chorus which has included hundreds of New Yorkers over the last 6 years. Our most profound contribution to the culture of the region was a series of performances of the Mozart Requiem in 2016, memorializing the 15th anniversary of 9/11. My experience in organizing and leading such a chorus, comprised of many different people from all age groups and walks of life, gives me the experience needed to organize a political chorus to fulfill our nation’s mission to “form a more perfect union,” as defined by our Constitution, where classical culture will play a crucial part.

Most importantly, I have stood side by side with the greatest American of the last century, the statesman and economist Lyndon LaRouche, until his passing in 2019, fighting for the same principles that our Founding Fathers cherished and fought for against the enemy from whom we won our independence: the British Empire. This puts me in opposition to Schumer and his seditious sponsors from Wall Street.

From Lyndon LaRouche I have gained an understanding of the science of physical economy, which is powered by the creativity of the individual human mind. LaRouche’s work in this area was an advance on the work of another great New Yorker, Alexander Hamilton, whose writings on “the subject of manufactures,” “public credit,” and the “national bank” should be staples of any high school history or civics class, but with which most Americans are unfamiliar, and which Schumer and his monetarist sponsors on Wall Street reject.

A Conjunctional Crisis

I am running for U.S. Senate in 2022 because our nation and the world are at a very dangerous juncture. The world has recently surpassed 3 million deaths from COVID-19, with more than 575,000 in our nation alone. Meanwhile, according to David Beasley of the World Food Program, 270 million people are threatened with death by starvation this year, if food resources are not mobilized in time. The great powers -- China, Russia, India, and the United States -- must come together in a plan of coordinated action, not only for equitable mass vaccine distribution, but for the eradication of poverty which creates the conditions for any disease to become a pandemic.

Instead of welcoming such cooperation, the Biden Administration is continuing the reprehensible foreign policy orientation of former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, who seemed to get most of his ideas from former President Barack Obama, who never met a war he didn’t like, or a village whose innocent civilians he didn’t want to murder with drone attacks. President Trump drew the ire of the British Intelligence Services, and what he correctly identified as the “military industrial complex” in this country for his initial commitment to have “good relations” with Russia, China, and even North Korea -- all of which was derailed by the witch hunt against him, including the very damaging, phony “Russia-gate” investigation, for which Schumer was a ringleader.

A Change of Direction

A total change of direction is needed, immediately, if the very real potential for general thermo-nuclear war is to be averted.

The first step to restoring the sovereignty and integrity of our Republic is to crush Wall Street and liberate ourselves, finally, from the City of London and the British Imperial Monetarist System. This means convening a summit of at least the United States, Russia, and China, perhaps India, to put the entire global financial system through an orderly bankruptcy reorganization. The world must return to a fixed exchange rate, gold reserve-based monetary system, which was abandoned by Wall Street and Nixon, back in 1971. This will facilitate long term lending for great projects, as China is currently engaged in building through its Belt and Road Initiative.

In the United States, the Glass-Steagall Act must be reinstated, which will separate and isolate the legitimate functions of banking from the speculation of Wall Street; this has to be done, while we put our banking system through a bankruptcy reorganization, as FDR did in the very first days of his administration. But these actions can never take place unless we finally do away with the privately-run, unconstitutional Federal Reserve, and establish a national bank that will issue trillions of dollars in directed credit, not to inflate a bubble of fictitious waste, but directed to fund those endeavors which increase the real productivity of the American workforce.

Hold Schumer Accountable

If we were to join China’s Belt and Road Initiative, it would require modernizing all of our ports and port cities, while building about 43,000 miles of modern high speed rail. We need nuclear power, and plenty of clean, coal fired plants, as we transition in the next decades to energy from fusion power. We must dramatically upgrade our public schools, as well as establish large apprenticeship programs to create a skilled workforce capable of building this new future for our people and the world. Our labor unions and military veterans will both be important to provide leadership and training to a young generation eager to be given a purpose, and a chance for a decent life.

I insist that we prosecute the financiers who have put their own personal greed ahead of the well being of millions of people by rigging the markets, and the interest rates; laundering drug money; financing terrorism and human trafficking, and all similar crimes which are run today on such a massive scale that it is impossible that the perpetrators are unknown. And, if it is found that Chuck Schumer has helped to cover up for these crimes by turning a blind eye, then he, too, should be prosecuted, and frog-marched to jail where he can enjoy his retirement.

We cannot afford to wait until after 2022 to address these crises that are on our doorstep today. My campaign for U.S. Senate is a campaign for “Action, and action now!” as FDR once demanded. I would ask all people of good will to join the political chorus for Justice, Progress, and, most of all, Hope for a decent future for all our citizens.

An Appreciation of a Fighter for Truth and Justice

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark Dies at 93

Special to New Federalist

Former United States Attorney General Ramsey Clark passed away in New York City on April 9, 2021, at the age of 93. Clark stood for the true Constitution of the real United States and was consistently opposed to the hijacking of the American legal system for the purpose of justifying war crimes -- often committed in the Constitution’s name. He was, moreover, a voice for reason who, contrary to many others of his and later generations, became clearer and stronger as the decades passed.

Clark was an independent man of principle, a true citizen of the republic of the mind. So long as he was alive, he personified the justice that citizens should expect to enjoy from the American Constitutional and legal system. Clark understood the true depth of injustice that the late economist and statesman Lyndon LaRouche and his associates had suffered, both in his Presidential campaigns and otherwise, and he also appreciated that “the book people,” as he referred to LaRouche’s International Caucus of Labor Committees, possessed an unshakable commitment to truth.

A Truthful Candidate

Clark approached his brief attempts at seeking public office in much the same way as LaRouche approached his eight Presidential campaigns. Douglas Martin of The New York Times reported: “Mr. Clark became an office seeker in 1974, when, as a Democrat, he tried to unseat Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York, a Republican. Holding to his principled positions, Mr. Clark often told voters what they did not want to hear. He advocated gun control legislation in speeches to hunters, and told defense industry workers that their plants should be closed. He lost convincingly.”

The New York voters of 1974 lost, not Ramsey Clark. He was that rarest of political candidates: a truth-teller. In a time darkened by multiple assassinations and the shrinking of the national character, Clark, like President John Quincy Adams, embodied a stubborn disdain for retreating to the comfort of a convenient deceit, wrapped in the guise of a law. He would not allow those with whom he or anyone else politically disagreed to be bludgeoned by the truncheon of legality.

The Injustice of the LaRouche Case

It was to precisely prevent such an occurrence that Clark sent a letter to Attorney General Janet Reno on April 26, 1995, which began as follows:

Credit: Stuart Lewis

“Re: U.S. v. Lyndon LaRouche, Jr. et al.

“Dear Attorney General Reno, “I have been an attorney in this case since shortly after the defendants were sentenced in January 1990 and appeared as co-counsel on appeal and on the subsequent motions and appeals in proceedings under 28 U.S. C. sec. 2255 and F.R. Cr.P. Rule 33.

“I bring this matter to you directly, because I believe it involves a broader range of deliberate and systematic misconduct and abuse of power over a longer period of time in an effort to destroy a political movement and leader, than any other federal prosecution in my time or to my knowledge. Three courts have now condemned the Department’s conduct in this prosecutorial campaign. The result has been a tragic miscarriage of justice which at this time can only be corrected by an objective review and courageous action by the Department of Justice.”

No such action as demanded by Clark occurred.

In a statement released on his passing, Helga Zepp-LaRouche, founder of the Schiller Institute and widow of Lyndon LaRouche called Clark, a “towering personality” whose memory we must preserve by continuing to fight injustice everywhere.

“My late husband Lyndon LaRouche and Ramsey Clark had both a boundless respect for each other, recognizing in each other that specific quality of character that is incapable of committing a falsehood or making any kind of compromise with the truth for personal benefit,” she said. “Both of them had the characteristic of belonging to the World War II generation, the better part of which shared the moral outlook of Franklin Delano Roosevelt that it was the moral obligation of the United States to help the developing countries to overcome the relics of colonial underdevelopment...”

“Ramsey, on his own initiative, joined Lyn’s legal defense to appeal the conviction, because he was appalled by the legal atrocities that were committed in the Alexandria “rocket docket” court.

“In his remarks to the hearings of an Independent Commission to Investigate Human Rights Violations held in 1995, Ramsey said: ‘But in what was a complex and pervasive utilization of law enforcement, prosecution, media, and non-governmental organizations focussed on destroying an enemy, this case must be number one. There are some, where the government itself may have done more, and more wrongfully over a period of time; but (in) the very networking and combination of federal, state, and local agencies, of Executive and even some Legislative and Judicial branches, of major media and minor local media, and of influential lobbyist types, the ADL (Anti-Defamation League) preeminently, this case takes the prize.’

Re-Open Indian Point — Or Spend Big Bucks for Blackouts

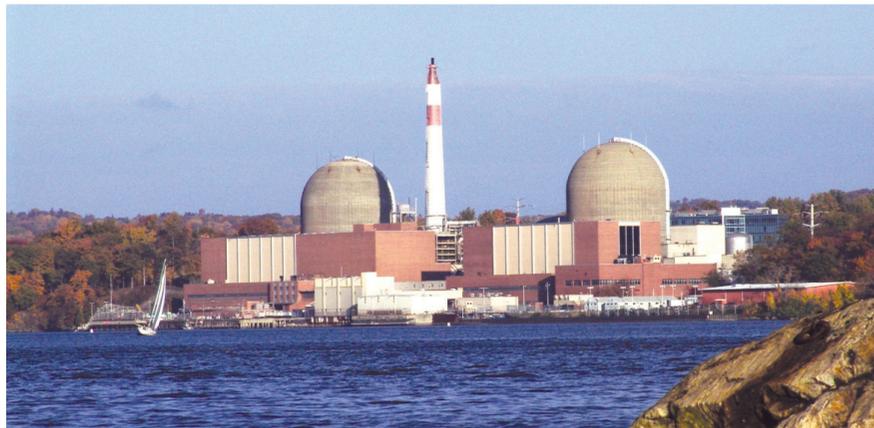

Special to New Federalist

NEW YORK, May 15— On April 30, the last operating nuclear reactor at Indian Point was shut down in an act of insanity by a deranged political class, which, if not reversed, will have profound and devastating impacts on the people of this state.

The first reactor at Indian Point had been one of the early commercial nuclear reactors in the nation when it began producing energy in 1962. It closed in 1974 but from then until last year, reactors 2 and 3 produced a combined total of 2000 MW reliable energy for the region, which accounted for roughly one quarter of the power supply for New York City, 25 miles to the south. The remaining reactor, which was just stopped, was producing 1000 MW of safe, reliable energy.

Governor Andrew Cuomo, and other proponents of closing the plant, claim that this energy will be replaced by the energy being produced from natural gas at the recently completed Cricket Valley Energy Center (1100 MW) combined with increasing solar and wind power. Cricket Valley has merely replaced the 1000 MW formerly generated by the Indian Point reactor which was shut 1 year ago. According to the "Nuclear New York" website, "Indian Point's shutdown will result in additional fossil fuel burning at some of the dirtiest gas-and-oil generators in NYC, mostly located in poor and minority areas in the City." What is clear is that rolling blackouts during the hot summer months ahead are, according to these experts, now inevitable and will have a devastating impact on the health and welfare of the people of New York.

Independent U.S. Senate Candidate Diane Sare, who has hosted numerous policy discussions on the topic of the benefits of nuclear energy, declared, "This is an unmitigated disaster for the people of New York and the nation. Texas just had over 200 people die -- freezing to death, or of carbon monoxide poisoning -- because windmills added to their already-deregulated power grid froze, among other failures which disrupted the grid."

The last operating nuclear reactor at Indian Point was shut down April 30, 2021.

Bad Advice

Mayor Theresa Knickerbocker of Buchanan, NY, the town where Indian Point is located, speaking at Sare's Friday evening New York Symposium on Feb. 26, 2021 said, "What I find most interesting, in a sick, twisted way, is that these people call themselves environmentalists, but what replaced Unit 2 was a 1,000 megawatt gas-fired plant, and what will replace -- on April 30 we have Unit 3, our other unit, closing -- that will also be replaced by a gas-fired plant...And what you have are people from outside the area that are telling you, basically, what's good for you and what's not good for you...."

"It's just a sad situation," she continued. "With the closing of this plant we are losing half our revenue. We are losing 1,000 very good paying jobs. And we are losing a good corporate neighbor. Not only to Buchanan, but throughout Westchester County. Entergy, and I will say this to the day I die, was an excellent corporate neighbor. They gave out money to many different organizations, many different municipalities. So, they're going -- our library, our school -- they're going to be very much missed. This is something we are not going to be able to replace..."

The power and efficiency of nuclear fission in today's reactors is not appreciated by most Americans. A plant operator at Indian Point explained that to replace the power generated by a 1000 MW nuclear reactor would take 10,000 tons of coal, or 100 rail cars of coal, per day, every day.

We Need More Power

Speaking merely in terms of "replacing" the power generated by Indian Point, however, misses a broader point: the United States is already suffering from a lack of reliable energy, and what is needed is to more than double our current power supply.

For example, the COVID-19 pandemic exposed a great deficit in the ability to provide medical care in a time of need. There is no redundancy, no surge capacity, and in fact, in many rural parts of the country, the nearest hospital is a three hour drive away. Hospitals consume a lot of energy -- from the advanced technology used in diagnostic imaging, to refrigerating medications, to storing oxygen, sterilizing equipment and more. It is estimated that merely to return to the Hill Burton standard of health infrastructure in the United States, an additional 10,000 MW of power would need to be brought online. When you consider that we have no high speed electric rail yet, but need about 43,000 miles built, and we'd have to produce the concrete and steel to build all of this, it becomes more and more obvious why shutting down nuclear plants at this moment is the height of insanity.

"There is no vaccine for stupidity", said a renowned nuclear physicist when considering the closure of the Indian Point nuclear reactors.

"At this point, if the physical decommissioning of the plant can be delayed, the plant could be reopened," said candidate Sare. "Activists in Canada recently succeeded in restarting plants which had been closed for 7 years. The reactors at Indian Point could be safely operated for at least another decade while a new reactor, or reactors were built. New Yorkers should not give up on Indian Point. "By July, a few million people in a very hot New York City may suddenly realize that perhaps they were afraid of the wrong thing," Sare warned.

Chinese Rover Lands Successfully on Mars

China's Zhurong rover landed on Mars on May 15, 2021. Attribution: 中国新闻网

a pair of panoramic cameras and a multispectral imager will provide information about the terrain and its composition, a laser to vaporize rocks to analyze their makeup (similar to the laser spectrometers aboard Curiosity and Perseverance), a magnetometer will measure magnetic fields in tandem with an instrument on the orbiter, and a climate station will measure the local atmosphere, temperature, pressure, wind, and sound on Mars.

The Chinese Mars landing follows the recent landing of the American rover Perseverance, which carried the first-ever helicopter, Ingenuity, to the surface of Mars, and which had its first successful flight on April 19th.

Diane Sare, LaRouche independent Senate Candidate vs. Chuck Schumer, blasted the recently-voted-out-of-committee "Strategic Competition Act," which targets China as a technological adversary, as being "completely destructive of human progress. Here are the United States and China, both achieving remarkable scientific breakthroughs in space, and our Senate expresses paranoid hostility, as opposed to considering the incredible progress for mankind if we were to collaborate." She added, "Schumer's companion legislation the 'Endless Frontier Act' is a similar anti-China fraud. If Schumer wanted to actually compete with China, he wouldn't be trying to legalize pot and destroy the minds of our youth and our workforce."

ancient Chinese mythology. Fire brought warmth and brightness to the ancestors of humankind, and fire lit up human civilization. Naming China's first Mars rover after the god of fire signifies igniting the flame of China's inter-planetary exploration, inspiring those working in this field to surpass themselves and pursue space dreams.

"The universe is also a dream for all humankind. China has always carried itself to peaceful use of space, pursued all relevant international exchange and cooperation and shared outcomes in space exploration. With the spirit of seeking benefits for all mankind, China will continue to advance international cooperation in an open and inclusive manner and make greater contributions to the lofty cause of exploring the mysteries of the universe and promoting peace and development for mankind."

The Zhurong rover carries a suite of six scientific instruments:

Special to New Federalist

NEW YORK, May 15—On May 15, the Chinese rover "Zhurong" (God of Fire) made a successful landing on the surface of the red planet. China is the second nation to successfully land a rover on Mars, and the first nation to establish an orbiter first, and then launch the rover from the orbiter, using retrorockets and a supersonic parachute, to make a soft landing, and to do this all on the first attempt.

When reflecting on the international congratulations from many nations, including America's NASA, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said: "The Chinese people have a long-cherished space dream. From Shenzhou, Chang'e and Yutu to Tiangong and Tianwen, these beautiful names are the crystallization of their infinite longing for the distant stars and unknown space. The Mars rover of Tianwen-1 is named Zhurong after the god of fire in

This Pamphlet Can Stop the "Great Reset"

Diane Sare, LaRouche independent candidate for US Senate in New York, has urged "everyone to get their hands on the pamphlet released by The LaRouche Organization, 'The Great Leap Backward: LaRouche Crushes the Green New Deal Fraud' which exposes what is behind the so called "Great Reset." "It's all here," said Sare. This is what is behind the rhetoric about climate change-- a nefarious plan that will literally make trillions for Wall Street, while imposing genocide on especially the poorer populations of the planet." She said that the skepticism she has encountered from New Yorkers about the plan is well-founded, but that most people don't know the whole story. Former New York City Mayor Mike Bloomberg is a major proponent of the fascist green scheme. You can find a PDF of the pamphlet at: TheLaRouche.org/reset.

DIANE SARE

2022 for
UNITED STATES SENATE

Fire Chuck Schumer in 2022!

- Crush Wall Street and bankrupt the Federal Reserve; reinstate Glass-Steagall.
- Establish an international Hamiltonian Credit System for peaceful world development, cooperate with Russia and China
- No to the Green New Deal climate change fraud--create a powerful, productive economic platform based on fusion energy.
- No regime change wars and unilateral sanctions; reduce military spending. Create a modern health system in every nation.

/Sare4Senate
 @DianeSare
 /dianesare

sareforsenate.com (646) 328-1932

PAID FOR BY SARE FOR SENATE

Schumer: Dope NY, Then the Nation

Continued from page 1

Given that there are mountains of evidence from States that legalized recreational marijuana years ago, that the actual tax revenue will come in much lower than projected; that there will be very few minority-owned dispensaries; and that the costs to society of having so many cognitively impaired people running around, far outweighs the gains, one wonders whether there's a large marijuana dispensary already operating under the Capitol Dome.

Creating Psychotics

On March 4th, Dr. Kevin Sabet of Smart Approaches to Marijuana led a coalition of experts on drug policy, including medical professionals, prevention workers, law enforcement, and education advocates, in a virtual press conference outlining their opposition to the effort to legalize marijuana in New York State.

In the press conference, Dr. Thomas Madjesky, past President of the Medical Society of the State of New York, and a Trustee of the American Medical Association, who has sent patients to medical marijuana dispensaries for pain relief, quickly itemized the cases of five of his own patients who experienced debilitating cognitive damage from marijuana use -- including psychotic episodes and inability to return to work, ever.

Dr. Russ Kramer, co-founder and medical director of Partners in

New York City panhandlers begging for "weed" at Columbus Circle. Inset: Dope Inc., commissioned in 1978 by Lyndon LaRouche, enraged drug-pushers everywhere, starting with the royal family.

Safety, reported that the first four states to legalize marijuana experienced an increase in auto fatalities, and that national legalization would lead to about 7000 more deaths per year in car accidents. He stressed, as did one of the sheriffs who participated, that there is no standard way to measure impairment from marijuana, and no standard to measure a driver's THC levels, like a breathalyzer does in the case of alcohol.

What no one will admit is that these drug legalization schemes are merely ways to increase the income stream to a drug-money-addicted Wall Street and City of London. As Dr. Sabet told the press on March 4th, there are no "mom and pop" marijuana dispensaries. The whole thing is run by "big tobacco, big alcohol, and big pharma," all of whom are prepared to destroy the lives of millions of young people and the productive base of the United States workforce, just to make money.

Sare said in her press release, "instead of slavery to a new, more genocidal British Empire, we need a crash program to bankrupt Wall Street, and rebuild our nation and the world, which will require over 1.5 billion real productive jobs. This also provides the key to liberating the potential of those currently trapped in our bloated prison system. Part of the problem is that the wrong people are in jail!"