9/11 Was Preventable: The Enemy Within

Only Facing the Truth Will Secure the Future

Bill Binney: A Good American Fights the Surveillance State

Special to New Federalist

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—One highly qualified individual who has provided us with an insight into the surveillance state that was put in place after 9/11 is William Binney, the former Tech- nical Director of the World Geo- political and Military Analysis and Reporting section of the National Security Agency (NSA), and a subject of the 2015 film “A Good American.”

Bill Binney resigned from his NSA position in 2006, in hopes that we will be able to address the issues he brought to light. What he has brought to light is how little was done to investigate what was going on after 9/11, how the actions of the government and others were taken, and how those actions have continued to this day.

Binney’s team had designed a low-cost metadata surveillance system known as “ThinThread,” which operated within U.S. Constitu- tional privacy constraints to collect and monitor data across a broad spectrum of platforms and devices. ThinThread was not used as “traffic,” to give intelligence agencies even more information to track and monitor, but was used in a legal manner to prevent terrorist attacks.

Last year Binney spoke with Schiller Institute representatives, describing how his ThinThread software was replaced by an uncon- stitutional metadata collection system that “spys on every phone call in the country.” He said the universal surveillance system made it nearly impossible to find anything that was illegal to stop terrorist plots, but rather, is designed to monitor the activities of specific individu- als identified as enemies of the Western intelligence complex. That is why we have seen no significant changes in the way we deal with terrorism.

One of the first things Binney wants to see is more funding for the ThinThread software, which is still in its early stages.

The New Federalist

Sare for Senate: Schumacher for 9/11 Coverup

Special to New Federalist

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—La- Rouche Independent candidate for U.S. Senate Diane Sare had her first public encounter with her op- ponent in the 2022 elections, Sena- tor Chuck Schumer, on August 18. He was speaking at a cocktail party at a Manhattan lounge, brag- ging about having won the nick- name “Kill Chuck,” and explaining that the United States should be more aggressive in its fight against terrorism.

Chuck Schumer’s campaign tried to downplay the encounter, saying that it was just “the usual political rhetoric” and that their opponent is a “professional politician.”

The Sare campaign has already filed a complaint with the Federal Election Commission, accusing Schumer of engaging in “false statements” during the encounter.

The Sare campaign has also been working to raise awareness about the importance of holding corporate giants accountable for their actions.

That’s why she supported the war in Afghanistan for so long, because they produced 80% to 90% of the world’s opium. Now there is a potential for change, but only if the United States will work with the nations surrounding Afghani- stan, especially including Rus- sia and China, two nations which Schumer has failed to accommodate in the U.S. elections. Schumacher is a liar. He works with the intelligence agencies, particu- larly the FBI and others that have played a terrible role in our nation over generations... That’s what Schumer represents.”

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}

The Teradrop Memorial: Russia’s Gift to 9/11 Victims

The Teradrop Memorial “In the Struggle Against World Terrorism,” dedicated in 2006 on the 5th anni- versary of September 11, was a gift to the American people from the people of Russia and the sculptor Zurab Tsereteli. It stands in Bayonne, New Jersey directly across the harbor from where the Twin Towers fell.

The Teradrop Memorial is a monument to the victims of the 9/11 attacks and serves as a reminder of the sacrifice made by those who gave their lives to prevent future terrorist attacks.

The Teradrop Memorial is a symbol of hope and remembrance for the families and friends of those who lost loved ones on September 11, 2001. It is also a reminder of the ongoing battle against terrorism and the need for continued vigilance.

The Teradrop Memorial is a fitting tribute to those who gave their lives on that fateful day, and a reminder of the importance of working together to create a safer and more peaceful world.

The monuments of innocent in a series of endless wars have been robbed, takes out a shot in the heart. Perhaps that’s why he supported the war in Afghanistan for so long, because they produced 80% to 90% of the world’s opium. Now there is a potential for change, but only if the United States will work with the nations surrounding Afghanist- an, especially including Rus- sia and China, two nations which Schumer has failed to accommodate in the U.S. elections. Schumacher is a liar. He works with the intelligence agencies, particu- larly the FBI and others that have played a terrible role in our nation over generations... That’s what Schumer represents.”

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}

The Sare campaign is calling on Schumer to step down as Senate Majority Leader and to work with the new administration to bring peace to Afghanistan.}
Osama bin Laden Was Patsy for Internal Sponsors of 9/11

LaRouche on Stockwell Radio Show

Special to New Federalist

Osama bin Laden was an American hero. He was a man who stood up for freedom and fought against tyranny. The United States government, however, used him as a patsy to cover up its own involvement in the attacks of September 11, 2001.

LaRouche: Absolutely. I've been talking about this for a long time. I know, I'm not very sympathetic to the idea of the United States, how much damage it has done, and the techniques that it has used to do that. But I'm concerned, not just a little bit, that the United States government is going to do this. That should not happen. This is really bad stuff. But we just don't do it [because] some people have the idea that this is the reason to be concerned about the security of the United States and the people of the world.

And, finally, we have the role of Senator Chuck Schumer, who was a member of the 9/11 Commission. When the 9/11 Commission was finished, he said that the Administration's endless wars, rather than dealing with the real problem, were managed with the help of former CIA chief George Tenet.

Binney and his boss had developed a surveillance system known as the National Security Agency (NSA) to monitor communications, which was the secret police force of the United States. This system was used to monitor the activities of millions of people, including those inside the United States.

If we wish to redeem ourselves, we must face the facts and be public, for which so many have paid the ultimate price, we cannot continue on the course of the last 20 years. We must rededicate ourselves to the principle of the "Genius Welfare for ourselves and our posterity," as stated in the preamble of the Constitution.

LaRouche: I call the MICIMATT, the Military Industrial Co-Operation in the Third World...went out and recruited a lot of young people from these countries.

Former CIA analyst Ray McGovern says U.S. policy in Afghanistan was "dumb" and "diseased" from the start.

LaRouche: Woe, you don't let us have any justice left in the United States. That means you're going to lose your position. But two in the same short—two in the same short time. You don't—if you dispense with your personal morality, your position is going to be lost.

If you wish to redeem ourselves, we must face the facts and be public, for which so many have paid the ultimate price, we cannot continue on the course of the last 20 years. We must rededicate ourselves to the principle of the "Genius Welfare for ourselves and our posterity," as stated in the preamble of the Constitution.

LaRouche: I call the MICIMATT, the Military Industrial Co-Operation in the Third World...went out and recruited a lot of young people from these countries.

Former CIA analyst Ray McGovern says U.S. policy in Afghanistan was "dumb" and "diseased" from the start.

LaRouche: Woe, you don't let us have any justice left in the United States. That means you're going to lose your position. But two in the same short—two in the same short time. You don't—if you dispense with your personal morality, your position is going to be lost.

If you wish to redeem ourselves, we must face the facts and be public, for which so many have paid the ultimate price, we cannot continue on the course of the last 20 years. We must rededicate ourselves to the principle of the "Genius Welfare for ourselves and our posterity," as stated in the preamble of the Constitution.

LaRouche: I call the MICIMATT, the Military Industrial Co-Operation in the Third World...went out and recruited a lot of young people from these countries.

Former CIA analyst Ray McGovern says U.S. policy in Afghanistan was "dumb" and "diseased" from the start.

LaRouche: Woe, you don't let us have any justice left in the United States. That means you're going to lose your position. But two in the same short—two in the same short time. You don't—if you dispense with your personal morality, your position is going to be lost.

If you wish to redeem ourselves, we must face the facts and be public, for which so many have paid the ultimate price, we cannot continue on the course of the last 20 years. We must rededicate ourselves to the principle of the "Genius Welfare for ourselves and our posterity," as stated in the preamble of the Constitution.