

End of Life Choice

First person accesses Victorian VAD law

On June 19th 2019 the Victorian Voluntary Assisted Dying (VAD) law came into force after an 18 month implementation phase.

- On July 15th 2019 Kerry Robertson, 61, was the first person assisted to die under the Victorian VAD law. Ms Robertson had battled cancer for almost a decade and had no prospect of a cure. Her family said that from the time she was given a terminal diagnosis, she was not afraid of death, but terrified of how the cancer would kill her and the pain she would suffer.
- Despite the best efforts of her palliative care team, her pain never eased and she was left bedridden. When the cancer spread to her liver in March she ceased all treatment.
- Her daughters stated that her death had reinforced their belief that people who are suffering intolerably deserve the choice to end their own life. They wanted her legacy to be the power of sharing her story to help people who are either contemplating or going through this process and their families.
- Go Gentle Australia's director Andrew Denton stated that this outcome demonstrated how well the law was operating in Victoria:
The eligibility criteria were met, the safeguards were worked through, and Kerry Robertson and her family were offered the compassionate death Kerry wanted.

Christians Supporting Choice For Voluntary Assisted Dying

christiansforvad.org.au

We are Christians who believe that, as a demonstration of love and compassion, those with a terminal or hopeless illness should have the option of a pain-free, peaceful and dignified death with legal voluntary assisted dying / voluntary euthanasia. This is strongly supported by the majority of Australian Christians.

MY BODY MY Choice-VE

MBMC provides a voice for people with disability in the VE reform debate. MBMC represents the interests of people with disabilities who wish to exercise choice in all aspects of their life, including choice at the end of life, with the view that choice and control are a fundamental human right for everyone.

MBMC argues that people with disabilities know how it feels to lose personal autonomy through their ongoing fight for self-determination, independent living and disability rights.

MBMC believes that people with disabilities, who have struggled to control their own lives and bodies, must be allowed to maintain control and autonomy throughout their life, especially at its end.

Doctors for Assisted Dying Choice

drs4assisteddyingchoice.org

We are a national organisation of Australian medical practitioners, both current and retired, who are committed to having a legal choice of providing information and assistance to rational adults, who, for reasons of no realistic chance of cure or relief from intolerable symptoms, would like to gently end their lives.

Assistance may be by doctor provision of medication for the patient to consume, or by doctor-administration.

Lawyers for Death with Dignity

Lawyers for Death with Dignity acknowledges the need for people with profound suffering to have the legal choice for a medically assisted and dignified death.

The current law says suicide is not illegal, but assisting suicide is. People in a terminal state may have profound, unbearable suffering and be in the undignified position of being unable to end their life without assistance.

Advances in medicine have improved life expectancy, but South Australian law has not changed to reflect the often forgotten deterioration in quality of life that a longer life expectancy may bring.

Paramedics Supporting Choices in Dying

Paramedics Supporting Choices in Dying is an advocacy group promoting the rights of people to make decisions regarding their end of life wishes.

To go without pain, without trauma, without breaking the law, without endangering others and without suffering. To go gently, peacefully and with dignity.

We support good palliative care, encourage the use of Advance Care Directives and advocate for law reform to legalise the choice for voluntary euthanasia and voluntary assisted dying.
