

End of Life Choice

How voluntary assisted dying influenced the Victorian 2018 election

Marshall Perron, former Chief Minister of the Northern Territory and architect of the first voluntary assisted dying (VAD) law in the world, explains the impact of VAD on the outcome of the Victorian election. In a media release he explained that while many parliamentarians traditionally 'shy away' from supporting VAD:

- After legislating VAD in Victoria (the first Australian State) in 2018, Premier Andrews won a huge victory. There were multiple reasons including VAD which has unprecedented 80-85% public support.
- Almost all Liberal MPs in the previous parliament voted against VAD legislation and the party suffered an average 6.04% swing against it, with two of the staunchest opponents (Robert Clark and Inga Peulich) losing their seats.
- Dying With Dignity Victoria and Andrew Denton (Go Gentle Australia) ran targeted campaigns focusing on four electorates using Robo calls, advertising, social media and face to face meetings to inform voters about where their candidates stood on VAD.
- The four Liberal candidates (one a sitting member) all opposed VAD and suffered an average 10.1% drop in primary votes compared with the average overall drop of 6.04%. The Liberal sitting member lost his seat, and in the other three seats the sitting Labor and Greens members who all supported VAD were returned with significantly increased votes.

Candidates can increasingly expect to lose support when they ignore the wishes of the voters they seek to represent.

Christians Supporting Choice For Voluntary Assisted Dying

christiansforvad.org.au

We are Christians who believe that, as a demonstration of love and compassion, those with a terminal or hopeless illness should have the option of a pain-free, peaceful and dignified death with legal voluntary assisted dying / voluntary euthanasia. This is strongly supported by the majority of Australian Christians.

MBMC provides a voice for people with disability in the VE reform debate. MBMC represents the interests of people with disabilities who wish to exercise choice in all aspects of their life, including choice at the end of life, with the view that choice and control are a fundamental human right for everyone.

MBMC argues that people with disabilities know how it feels to lose personal autonomy through their ongoing fight for self-determination, independent living and disability rights.

MBMC believes that people with disabilities, who have struggled to control their own lives and bodies, must be allowed to maintain control and autonomy throughout their life, especially at its end.

Doctors for Assisted Dying Choice

drs4assisteddyingchoice.org

We are a national organisation of Australian medical practitioners, both current and retired, who are committed to having a legal choice of providing information and assistance to rational adults, who, for reasons of no realistic chance of cure or relief from intolerable symptoms, would like to gently end their lives.

Assistance may be by doctor provision of medication for the patient to consume, or by doctor-administration.

Lawyers for Death with Dignity

Lawyers for Death with Dignity acknowledges the need for people with profound suffering to have the legal choice for a medically assisted and dignified death.

The current law says suicide is not illegal, but assisting suicide is. People in a terminal state may have profound, unbearable suffering and be in the undignified position of being unable to end their life without assistance.

Advances in medicine have improved life expectancy, but South Australian law has not changed to reflect the often forgotten deterioration in quality of life that a longer life expectancy may bring.
