

Edinburgh Leith Walk – Mindset on Approaching the City

The open plan architectural drawing investigates the relationship of the public realm with accessible private space in and around a high street in Edinburgh. This is not a design proposal but rather an attempt to represent a mindset on approaching fractions of the city in order to identify problems and/or windows of opportunity.

Tasos Antonopoulos, Stelios Polyviou and Shiyu Gong – Architecture students, University of Edinburgh

