

Trump or Biden?

Every election cycle, the following statement becomes more true:

“This is the most important election of our lifetime.”

This election is vital to the survival of the United States as a free Republic. The choice we face is clear:

Trump: returning the Supreme Court to constitutionalist judges rather than legislating from the bench, filling lower court seats with qualified judges

OR

Biden: a Democrat promise to stack the court with enough additional justices to swing the court far left, perpetrating activist judges who see themselves as legislators

Trump: keeping Washington, DC as the Founders intended it

OR

Biden: a Democrat promise to create two new states: Washington, DC and Puerto Rico, with an automatic addition of four senate seats to the Democrat side of the aisle

Trump: unprecedented economic growth benefitting every sector of American society, especially women, African-Americans and Latinos

OR

Biden: a return to the slowest and smallest economic growth since the Depression

Trump: the rule of law and justice applied even-handedly to everyone

OR

Biden: the chaos and anarchy ruining Democrat-run cities and states spreading nationwide PLUS a two-tiered justice system where government elites are above the law

Trump: supporting and defending good cops while calling for prosecution and reform where bad policing exists

OR

Biden: de-funding and de-moralizing the heroes in law enforcement

Trump: welcoming and supporting legal immigrants who are a benefit to the entire nation

OR

Biden: granting amnesty to every illegal immigrant already here, including known criminals, and opening the borders without restriction

Trump: re-negotiation of treaties and trade deals that benefit America first while benefitting all participants

OR

Biden: selling out the American worker to China, shipping jobs overseas and strangling economic growth with government red tape

Trump: re-building our military to its former greatness as the most able and agile fighting force in the history of the world

OR

Biden: a demoralized, under-appreciated and under-funded military

Trump: clamping down on the horrific sex trade industry

OR

Biden: 47 years of ignoring a heinous problem

Trump: keeping American energy independent and a net exporter of energy for the first time in our history

OR

Biden: returning the US to being the pawns of OPEC, suffering from the whims of Middle Eastern political upheaval

Trump: negotiating several meaningful and historic peace deals in the Middle East

OR

Biden: too often choosing to follow the far left members of his Party who have continually given a pass to the Palestinians for their role in the Middle East conflict and have belittled and condemned Israel.

Trump: holding China accountable for years of bad-faith commitments, intellectual property theft and cyber crimes

OR

Biden: enriching his family while abusing his power as Vice President of the US

Trump: real change for Black and minority communities by forming opportunity zones, passing permanent funding and protections for Black colleges and universities, adopting Executive Order "Safe Policing for Safe Communities", prison reform and enacting the First Step Act.

OR

Biden: 47-years of promises to the Black community with little change. Offering the same policies that have failed for decades: strategies that have inflamed racial divisions, uncontrolled immigration, high taxes, dead end handouts instead of real opportunities. Taking the Black vote for granted: "If you don't know who to vote for, you ain't black." Joe Biden, 5/22/20

Trump: an active, engaged, America-loving idea-man who has accomplished more in three years than most politicians accomplish in a lifetime

OR

Biden: a tired, inconsistent career politician with a 47-year record of political pandering and questionable accomplishments

Can there be any question which candidate is best for America?
