As the rain clouds and the sun begin to poke their faces our from their cold winter blanket, we enter a season of change at Promise Valley, as well. We are beginning to implement the foundational ministry shifts to prepare the “soil” in a sense for a future “harvest” in our community ministry. Three of these changes include our Director John’s focus on 1) Recruiting residential missionaries 2) Networking with churches and other community allies and 3) Laying the groundwork for an urban farm. Each of the these fall into our “Abiding Life-Giving Presence” vision to change our community through gospel-centered living. There’s plenty more that John would love to share with you in-person. So, keep an eye out for him as he visits local churches or make an appointment for a tour this season!
