PART I: GENERAL QUESTIONS (200 words or less)

Are you a registered member of the Democratic Party? Yes.

Please describe your contributions to the Democratic Party and/or increasing civic engagement in the democratic process at the local, state and or/national level in the recent years.

I have organized voter registration events at public housing projects and neighborhoods in District 10 to engage more residents in the political process so that their voices are heard. At my organization, Young Community Developers, we provide voter registration services when members of the community are applying for our programming. I have campaigned for only democrats my entire life and have attended Democratic Party Conventions as a voting delegate and in order to support our agenda as Democrats.

Are there any other civic causes or organizations that you are involved with? Please describe. Please summarize your qualifications and experience for the office you are seeking. Please list any organizations or elected officials who have endorsed you.

I am an active member in the following organizations:

- Alice B. Toklas LGBT Democratic Club
- American Society of Public Administrators
- Eastern Neighborhoods Democratic Club
- Latino Democratic Club
- National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
- Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc.

As a native of District 10 who lived in public housing in both Bayview and Potrero Hill at a young age, this election is personal for me. I want to make sure that District 10 and San Francisco thrive and provide opportunities for indigenous populations while also providing economic opportunities through growth. With two decades of experience working with District 10 neighborhoods and building coalitions across different backgrounds and ideologies, I have proven that I am ready to hit the ground running on day one.

As president and member of the San Francisco Board of Education, I spearhead the effort to close the achievement gap for Black, Latino, and special needs students and I helped secure the funding for the school district's first African American Achievement and Leadership Initiative. I worked to protect undocumented students, secured the financing and identified a site for our first affordable housing units for educators, and fought to make sure that Mission Bay will have its first school built in the next few years. I have helped decrease teacher turnover in our Southeast sector schools and increase graduation rates across the district (including for our Black and Latino students).

As the Executive Director at Young Community Developers (YCD), I work vigorously to build close relationships with labor to provide job and career opportunities for residents and bring 100% affordable housing units to District 10. Under my leadership, we have increased YCD's annual budget by more than $9 million dollars and used those funds to better the lives of D10 residents by placing them in jobs and careers, developing affordable housing (100% at Candlestick Park), eliminating employment barriers and increasing education outcomes with credit recovery and tutorial services for students.

I am passionate about quality public education, options for living-wage jobs, safer neighborhoods, affordable housing, support services for the homeless, and universal healthcare. As Supervisor, I will strongly advocate for communities from low-income and working-class neighborhoods. I will work to improve our schools, bring more jobs to the district, increase access to affordable housing, bridge relationships amongst all diverse communities, stop gun violence, and ensure we have safe open spaces. These are values that strongly align with the Democratic Party.

PART III: SHORT-ANSWER QUESTIONS ON ISSUES (250 Words or less)

1) What specific policy changes would you propose to address the issue of chronic homelessness in San Francisco?

Homelessness is a major issue in San Francisco, but certain neighborhoods in District 3, 5, 6, 9, and 10 bear majority of the responsibility that comes with having the highest population of homeless residents. Our residents should not have to dodge needles and feces while strolling in their neighborhood and our homeless residents need supportive services to help them get back on their feet. The bottom line is that we must strategically increase resources that are used for creating transitional and permanent housing for our homeless, including creating more Navigation Centers with pathways to permanent housing and utilizing abandoned buildings to house and provide supportive services. In the long-term, this will involve building additional affordable housing, using some of our public land to build affordable projects or supportive housing, increasing the City's mental health and addiction treatment services, and ending the practice of releasing non-violent, mentally ill and/or addicted individuals from jail directly back to the street.

We need to work with the Homeless Outreach Team (HOT) and the Department of Public Works to bring people into supportive services instead of having homeless folks relocate after a sweep. Under my leadership at Young Community Developers, my team will be staffing the new Navigation Center located near the Cesar Chavez hairball. I am strongly in support of our upcoming ballot measure Our City, Our Home which I believe will provide the additional resources needed to help care for our homeless population and help them off the streets.

The City also needs to purchase vacant lots and small sites to build more homeless housing. Vacant hotels, old dormitories (like Academy of Arts property) should be purchased by the City and turned into housing as well. I would push our Department of real Estate to aggressively acquire property for increased housing options.

2) We recognize that the affordability crisis and evictions has particularly impacted our marginalized communities and communities of color. How do you plan to address preserving these communities? How would you address the issue of the displacement of low-income communities in San Francisco?

Bayview and Visitacion Valley are some of the last parts of San Francisco with a vibrant Black community, but new developments and the rising price of homes has caused many long time residents to be pushed out to inland cities. As a native to Bayview, this topic has become increasingly personal for me as I have witnessed more and more family members and life-long friends forced to leave. It illustrates precisely why this District 10 election is so critical - if we are going to protect SF's historic communities of color we do not have time for a Supervisor who will have a steep learning curve. District 10 needs someone already in the trenches and ready to fight for our community over the details of every policy, measure, and contract from day one.

The first step to addressing displacement is to zealously work for economic empowerment within District 10's minority communities. At YCD, I have labored tirelessly to provide career development and job training that connects residents to living wage employment that allows them to stay in San Francisco. As Supervisor, I would introduce Local Mandatory Hiring legislation that requires all sectors of employment, not just construction, to hire from existing communities and neighborhoods. The policy would start out with a certain percentage requirement, with the ability to be adjusted upwards based on results and the needs of both the community and the particular company or industry. In communities that have been blighted or where population movement has led to decreased economic viability, I would also work to create "economic empowerment zones" to give small/community businesses the ability to compete while employing members of their own community.

In addition, we must aggressively use our existing laws to bring families back to San Francisco and stabilize our Black community. I know it is possible to locate displaced families and provide a path for them to return to the City because I have personally done it before. In my current role at YCD, I have brought back 12 certificates of preference holders (COP), all of whom were Black families who had moved to neighboring cities. As Supervisor, I would continue this work by creating a City task force solely dedicated to this task.

Lastly, it does us little good to find displaced families if there is no affordable housing within the city for them to be connected to. I have experience negotiating and building 100% affordable housing while holding developers responsible for community benefit packages that support walkability, mixed-use, and environmental concerns. By using this experience to responsibly build more affordable housing, I can help provide a pathway for displaced families identified by the Task Force to return to the City.

3) What is affordable housing to you? Should the current AMI (area median income) levels for low-income and middle-income be redefined? And how?

To me, “affordable housing” means residents are not spending over a third or more of their income towards rent. Rental prices are astronomical in San Francisco compared to the rest of our country, with prices reaching $3,500-4000 per month on average. This is a crisis that is causing seniors, low-income families, and working-class people to be forced out of San Francisco. That is why so many residents have multiple roommates, live with family in multigenerational households, or in the worst cases, stay in abusive relationships for housing. San Franciscans deserve better -- this is not the reality that we should be accepting.

As a renter myself, I understand the plight of this City’s tenants. Building more affordable housing needs to be prioritized, and, as Supervisor, I plan to build thousands of new affordable units for all income levels. I also believe we must preserve our existing rent-controlled units and create legislation that expands rent control. Lastly, I support the idea of municipally owned or controlled housing. San Francisco owns various public lots that have the potential to be developed and converted into affordable and below market rate opportunities for families. We should utilize our public land to build affordable projects such as teacher housing through public-private partnerships with nonprofit developers.

4) How would you balance the need for more housing and the need for community input in the Planning process?

As a City, we need to streamline 100% affordable projects that will ensure our most vulnerable communities will be able to stay in San Francisco and that may include forgoing community input. When it comes to market rate housing, we need to push for higher percentages of affordable housing within each development while considering community input especially if we are placing developments in communities that have been impacted the most by gentrification. While I was serving as the President of the Board of Education, I worked closely with the Board of Supervisors and community members to implement the first teacher housing developments for our educators.

5) What are your top district priorities and what would be your process for establishing these priorities and engaging community?

The residents of District 10 have long been neglected by City Hall, however, residents have an incredible eagerness to be heard and involved in decisions that affect the future of their families and neighborhoods. My campaign recently started a series of events called “Neighborhood Chats” where people come tell me what they want to see from their next Supervisor and I plan to continue these engagement sessions if I’m lucky to be elected. Some of the priorities that have been regularly coming up are: 1) the Environment: I will make sure the Navy and Tetra Tech are held accountable, pay for a complete and immediate clean-up of the Shipyard, retesting of existing housing built on the Shipyard, and provide adequate healthcare for our impacted residents; 2) Transportation: while our eastern neighborhoods have experienced the highest growth, our transportation infrastructure has not kept up with this population expansion. It is critical that we invest in San Francisco’s roads, transit system, and other vital infrastructure as housing units are added in District 10 including creating east-west connections and rapid lines to downtown; 3) Affordability: making sure our longtime residents are not displaced and our younger generations can afford to stay in the district.

6) If you are elected, what are your top concerns for San Francisco? How would you address these concerns?

My top concerns are the homelessness crisis, the affordability crisis, and improving our City’s public infrastructure - which includes better public transportation and public education. I believe this City’s officials must recognize it is our job to fix the affordability and homelessness crisis and increase available resources for strategically creating transitional and permanent housing for our homeless population. This includes working with communities to create more Navigation Centers, using abandoned buildings to house and provide supportive services, building additional affordable housing, using and acquiring public land for these purposes, increasing the City’s mental health and addiction treatment services, and ending the practice of releasing non-violent, mentally ill and/or addicted individuals from jail directly back to the street. We need to create local mandatory hiring policies across all sectors of employment and more job training programs to connect residents to living wage jobs, push developers to include a higher percentage of affordable units in their developments, and work with small property owners to legalize accessory dwelling units to maximize our affordable housing supply.

It is also important for us to recognize that our public infrastructure, including our public transportation and schools, has not kept up with our population growth. As we continue to develop on our City’s finite peninsula, it is imperative that we enforce the Transportation Sustainability Fee on new developments so that developers and city planners stay conscious of/address the effect a population increase will have on the neighborhoods they build in. As Supervisor, I will continue working directly with the SFMTA to bring reliable and accessible transportation to residents. I will also continue to bring quality public schools into our growing neighborhoods (as President of the Board of Education, I implemented plans to build a new school in Mission Bay).

7) What plan do you have to address the increased traffic congestion in the City and balance the sometimes conflicting needs and uses on our roads?

It is critical that San Francisco's roads, transit system, and other vital infrastructure expand as housing units are added. This includes investing in more public and alternative transportation options so our roads are less congested and bringing efficient public transit options to areas currently lacking public transit such as creating east to west connections and rapid bus lines to downtown. Specifically for District 10, we need to expand the T-Line and immediately provide more express buses that go through community and connect to downtown and commercial corridors across the City. I would also push to take the T-Line underground in the future, which would ease traffic congestion, allow for more cyclist and make transportation more rapid. Once we do that, we can get more cars off the street.
