Sikh Research Institute (SikhRI) will offer its first online course for learning Language of Gurbani; its latest offering on developing a better understanding and appreciation of the languages of Guru Granth Sahib.

The Language of Gurbani serves as an introductory course to major linguistic aspects of Gurbani. It covers major elements of Gurbani language in the form of instructions and discussion through structured short online sessions and offline personal reading and practice on the following:

- Language – Language system, Inscribed Elegance (script), Phonology (sound)
- Grammar – Parts of speech, inflection categories and case types

The course is based on the text book Guru Granth Sahib – Its Language and Grammar.

2014 TERM COURSE DETAILS:

Registration opens: September 11, 2014

Registration closes: September 25, 2014

Courses start: September 27, 2014

Courses end: October 26, 2014

Course length: 5 weeks, 12 instruction hours (two approximately 60-minute classes each weekend), 24 non-instruction hours including readings and exercises.

Time: 12 pm EDT

Course fee: $199

Program timings are subject to change in order to accommodate majority of the participants.

For those who wish to delve deeper into the linguistics of Gurbani, this course offers an excellent opportunity to engage and learn in the comfort of your home.

By offering this on-line course, SikhRI continues to build on its strong reputation for providing educational resources to Sikhs to lead a Guru-inspired life.

Take the first step, connect with the Guru.
