

Abigail Carter wrote The Alchemy of Loss: A Young Widow's Transformation as a form of catharsis after her husband's death in the World Trade Center on September 11th, 2001. Toronto's Globe and Mail calls it, "Eloquent and honest. . . Reading it is like sitting at your own kitchen table listening to Abigail Carter's story, a story that is unnerving, uplifting and occasionally humorous. . . remarkable." The book was also listed it as one of The Globe's top 100 books of 2008. A Canadian National Bestseller, The Alchemy of Loss is also published in Australia and translated into Dutch. Her work has appeared in SELF magazine, Reader's Digest Canada, MSN.com and MORE.com. Abigail moved from New Jersey to Seattle in 2005, where she now lives with her two children.
