STEF MENDELL, CITY COUNCIL CANDIDATE, RECEIVES ENDORSEMENT OF THE *INDY WEEK

Raleigh – Stef Mendell, Candidate for Raleigh City Council, District E, is proud to announce that she has received the endorsement of the Indy Week.

“...Mendell wants the city to innovate, using proceeds from the sale of city property and tax incentives to bolster affordable housing, while considering tax abatement to help people stay in their homes. She's also talking about finding solutions to challenges such as stormwater runoff and the scraped-off houses and oversize replacements that are changing Raleigh's older neighborhoods....We think it's time for a new voice to speak out for Midtown neighbors. Mendell fills the bill.”

“I am honored to receive this endorsement from the Indy Week,” Mendell said. “To read my answers to the Indy questionnaire click here,” she added.

Stef Mendell has lived in Raleigh since 1964. She is an activist in local government. She regularly attends City Council and Planning Commission meetings to advocate for and testify about the protection of our neighborhoods from incompatible development, storm water runoff, and other related challenges to our quality of life. While she welcomes progress, innovation, and smart growth, Mendell believes that growth comes with responsibilities. Mendell sees the need to improve citizen engagement while strengthening the role of the Citizens Advisory Councils (CACs). Paid for by the Committee to Elect Stef Mendell, P.O.
