

End Part-Time Poverty at UPS

Many UPS part-timers get a 47.5¢ raise on Feb 1. When's the next raise and when will starting pay go up? That all depends on what happens with our new union contract.

The Teamsters and UPS are negotiating a new union contract.

UPSers are coming together across the country to say it's time to End Part-Time Poverty at UPS.

Part-timers deserve:

- ◆ Higher wages
- ◆ More full-time jobs
- ◆ Less harassment and more respect

Part-timers and full-timers alike got screwed in the last contract. This time, we need to stick together and make UPS deliver a fair contract.

Note: Part-timers who started before Aug 1, 2008 get a 47.5¢ raise Feb. 1. Part-timers who started after that date get a raise on their anniversary date.

"UPS rakes in billions in profits every year yet some part-time employees are barely making it paycheck to paycheck.

"We deserve higher wages and more full-time jobs so we can provide for our families and have peace of mind."

Kioma Forero, Preload Local 804, New York

"No new contract goes into effect until the members vote on it first. Part-timers are half the workforce.

"The company needs to know we will Vote No on any contract that doesn't include higher wages and more full-time jobs."

Nick Perry, Preload Steward Local 413, Columbus, Ohio

Make UPS Deliver is a national network of UPS Teamsters. We provide factual information so members are not kept in the dark during contract negotiations. We work to unite UPS Teamsters. Our goal is to make the company and the International Union deliver the contract we deserve.
