

Will UNITED's Broken Promises mean a Broken Airline?

Passengers know all about UNITED's broken promises. Record numbers of flight cancellations and lost bags didn't stop UNITED from reaching record profits in 2012. As UNITED's professional aviation mechanics who keep these planes safe and in the air, we share your pain.

During bad times United Airlines took away our pensions, but promised us when times were good we would get our retirement plans back. After a year of stalling, UNITED executives broke off contract negotiations, declaring that there will be no pensions and 3,500 mechanics will be forced to pay an additional $300-$500 each month for our healthcare. This would have many mechanics making less than they do today.

We don't want to strike but we will if UNITED won't keep its promises.

UNITED MECHANICS ON STRIKE (NOT YET)

This leaflet is not intended to nor does it ask any employee to cease work or delivery. Please do not litter—recycle.