Voting Logistics

Early voting starts at City Hall, 8am-5pm on weekdays.
Deadline to register: http://RegisterToVote.ca.gov
Weekend voting in City Hall, 10am-4pm.

WHERE’S YOUR POLLING PLACE? CALL 311, SEE SFELECTIONS.ORG, OR ANYA CAN VOTE IN CITY HALL.

YOU CAN VOTE!
16- and 17-year-olds can pre-register and your registration will automatically be activated when you turn 18.

FORMER FELONS CAN VOTE!
Even if you’ve committed a felony, you can vote as long as you’re off parole. Don’t let the Man disenfranchise you.

SLACKERS CAN VOTE:
ELECTION DAY VOTER REGISTRATION!
Did you miss the 5/21 deadline to register to vote? For the first time in California, you can still vote— you just need to register and vote at City Hall. You CANNOT use a normal polling place, but if you go to the basement of City Hall you can register and vote at City Hall.

You CANNOT use a normal polling place, but if you go to the basement of City Hall you can register and vote at City Hall.
Imagining a San Francisco run by Jane Kim gives us hope. Community benefits possible by facilitating compromises for the City and delivered the most affordable housing and at 5th and Mission, she wasn’t interested in reducing building the Giants’ Mission Rock project and the “5M” development Jane has become the City’s de-facto housing negotiator. For middle-income housing!

Jane regularly gets into the nitty gritty of housing and tenant policy. She authored the Eviction Protections 2.0 ordinance Jane has won groundbreaking legislative victories: the country’s as District 6 Supervisor. She is a brilliant woman of color who of her immigrant family - from working on the School Board taking on Homeland Security’s illegal surveillance and harassment of immigrants when they tried to water down the Turk Street protected bike lane. We need a Mayor who stands up to bullies! Speaking of bullying: she was the first elected official to call for Police Chief Suhr to resign after police violence and racial-bias scandals rocked the SFPD.

Jane has become a champion for pedestrian and bike safety projects and stood up to the Fire Department’s bullying when they tried to water down the Turk Street protected bike lane. We need a Mayor who stands up to bullies! Speaking of bullies: she was the first elected official to call for Police Chief Suhr to resign after police violence and racial-bias scandals rocked the SFPD.

Jane has become the City’s de-facto housing negotiator. For middle-income housing!

Jane regularly gets into the nitty gritty of housing and tenant policy. She authored the Eviction Protections 2.0 ordinance Jane has won groundbreaking legislative victories: the country’s as District 6 Supervisor. She is a brilliant woman of color who of her immigrant family - from working on the School Board}

Like Kim, Leno has shown fearlessness and fortitude in tackling hot-button issues in Sacramento: protecting tenants, championing transparency on police misconduct, increasing the vehicle license fee to fund transportation, reducing minimum sentencing for nonviolent drug offenders, and taking on PG&E.

He’s also just a good person with the rare ability to tell you straight up when he disagrees with you and keep working with you on other issues. And have you seen how fly he looks in his Folsom leathers? He would be SF’s first openly gay Mayor, which is still a big deal. When so much of our LGBTQ community is being pushed out of the City, it’d be amazing to have a Mayor with such deep connections to that community. SF would be in capable hands with his resume and temperament.

Like Kim, Leno has shown fearlessness and fortitude in tackling hot-button issues in Sacramento: protecting tenants, championing transparency on police misconduct, increasing the vehicle license fee to fund transportation, reducing minimum sentencing for nonviolent drug offenders, and taking on PG&E.

He’s also just a good person with the rare ability to tell you straight up when he disagrees with you and keep working with you on other issues. And have you seen how fly he looks in his Folsom leathers? He would be SF’s first openly gay Mayor, which is still a big deal. When so much of our LGBTQ community is being pushed out of the City, it’d be amazing to have a Mayor with such deep connections to that community. SF would be in capable hands with his resume and temperament.

These props are in a duel. We’d gladly vote for both if we could, but unfortunately only one of them can win. That’s because Prop D has a “poison pill” that says if both C and D pass but Prop D has more votes, only Prop D takes effect. We don’t want to pit babies against housing, but Prop C is clearly the better measure.

Prop C raises twice as much money: a 3.5% tax for $140 million/year as opposed to Prop D’s 1.7% tax for $64 million. We love that Prop C will have a dramatic impact: eliminate the child care subsidy wastlist for low-income families, create new child care subsidies for middle-income families, and raise wages for child care workers. We pay a lot of lip service to “keeping families in the city” - this will put money into the pockets of families now.

Prop D thinly spreads too little money between too many needy causes (shelters, middle-income housing, and affordable rental subsidies). Community groups are organizing a bigger, better housing measure for November that isn’t compatible with families. We’ll see you there.