

Sasha Brightman

Project Support

“I believe that working with a range of people from many areas with diverse skillsets and backgrounds is an exciting opportunity for learning and growth for all parties. I am excited to be able to support Conservation Management to make positive changes in the world that benefits the environment for present and future generations”.

Based in Hobart, Sasha has a background in protected area governance and management with a focus on planning, leadership and change management, ecosystem conservation and reserve system design. Fresh out of University, Sasha is excited to apply her skills and assist the Conservation Management team to deliver projects and make a difference.
