  - Bad Money: Reckless Finance, Failed Politics, and the Global Crisis of American Capitalism by Kevin Phillips (Penguin Group, 2008). Phillips examines the “weapons of mass destruction” now detonating all around us: housing prices, credit-bubbles, untested and unstable financial instruments (e.g., derivatives and hedge funds), increasingly inadequate supplies of oil, dynastic politicians in thrall to entrenched interests, and imperial hubris.
  - “The Big Takeover” by Mike Taibbi (Rolling Stone, April 2, 2009 <www.rollingstone.com/politics/story/26793903/the\_big\_takeover>. Taibbi argues that the economic meltdown and subsequent bailout “formalized the political takeover of the government by a relatively small class of connected insiders who used money to control elections, buy influence and systematically weaken financial regulations.”
  - The Current Crisis: A Socialist Perspective by Leo Panitch and Sam Gindin (The Bullet, E-Bulletin No. 142, September 20, 2008) <www.socialistproject.ca/bullet/bullet142.html>.
  - Development Redefined - How the Market Met Its Match by Robin Broad and John Cavanaugh (Paradigm, 2008).   - The Financial Power Elite by John Bellamy Foster and Hannah Holleman (Monthly Review Press, May 2010). Has the power of financial interests in U.S. society increased? Has Wall Street’s growing clout affected the U.S. state itself? How is this connected to the present crisis? Foster & Holleman argue that the financialization of U.S. capitalism over the last four decades has been accompanied by a dramatic and probably long-lasting shift in the location of the capitalist class, a growing proportion of which now derives its wealth from finance as opposed to production. This growing dominance of finance can be seen today in the inner corridors of state power.

Galbraith offers a critique of the Geithner bailout as a continuation of the financialization of the economy and insufficient to reverse the squeeze on workers, the elderly, and the real economy.
