

ELECTION ISSUE

ECONOMY & JOBS

The global energy economy is transforming in fundamental ways that are irreversibly changing Alberta's economy.

Only one party leader has a plan to break away from the cycle of boom and bust and set the province on a more diversified foundation.

Alberta needs a leader who understands a changing economy and not yesterday's ideologues.

Election Day
April 16, 2019

Our future is going to be defined by change. What Alberta needs to do is adapt to change, not deny that change is right around the corner. And that means one thing.

The old, predictable PC approach of a $4.5 billion tax cut for Alberta's most profitable corporations while squeezing everyday Albertans with cuts to education, health care and tolls on roads - doesn't strengthen economies, it weakens them.

Despite overwhelming evidence, Jason Kenney denies that the global energy transformation is happening. He does not have an economic plan for Alberta's future. His backwards reaching economic prescription is for an economy that only works for the wealthy - while everyone else gets cuts to health care, education and a return to the boom and bust roller coaster.

We need a premier who is ready to embrace the challenges of a changing economy in a way that is responsible, optimistic and forward-looking.

ECONOMY & JOBS

- Diversify both within the oil and gas sector and beyond it to ensure future prosperity and a good standard of living in the province
- Invest in education, health care, infrastructure to improve Albertans' quality of life
- Create a well-trained workforce that drives the economy forward
- Use our resource wealth as a springboard to the future

ON APRIL 16

VOTE FOR A PREMIER THAT WILL FIGHT FOR WHAT MATTERS.
