

Working together to end
sexual & domestic violence

Introducing Rev. Susan Yarrow Morris, a FaithTrust Institute Presenter.

Rev. Susan Yarrow Morris (United Church of Christ), now retired, served for 16 years as a Campus Minister at Covenant House, an ecumenical ministry at the University of Washington, followed by sixteen years as a pastor in two multi staff urban UCC churches in Seattle.

In each of these settings she developed marriage preparation (for persons of all sexual orientations) and family life programs based on the unique dimensions of covenant theology. Informed by her professional and personal (marriage, parenthood, extended family, intentional community) experiences and knowledge, she is passionate about the dynamics of covenantal relationships as a foundation for healthy, lively, nonviolent interactions and continues to work with couples and families in various ministries.

Other interests are grand parenting, baseball, Yoga, poetry, gardening, cooking, and welcoming others to the home she shares with her husband near Olympia, WA. Her book, OPENING THE DOOR (A Pastor's Guide to Addressing Domestic Violence in Premarital Counseling) was published by FaithTrust Institute in 2006 and is used in various educational and pastoral settings.

For more information regarding FaithTrust Institute presenters and services, please contact the Project Coordinator at training@faithtrustinstitute.org.