

VHC Volunteers Make All the Difference!

The Ventura Hillsides Conservancy relies on hard-working enthusiastic volunteers to assist us with our work. With a small staff of only three people, we need help of others to achieve our goal of permanently preserving the hillsides, canyons and open space that contribute to the unique character and natural environment of the Ventura area.

There are many ways to get involved. Here are a few examples...

- Community Outreach – Be a passionate VHC voice and tell others about the good work we do. Help staff VHC booths and tables at various community events.
- Educational Outreach – Plan and execute student-centric and family-friendly outings and events designed to teach the community about Ventura's flora and fauna and why it's worth protecting.
- Fundraising – Bolster our bottom line by assisting with direct mailings, capital campaigns and special event fundraisers.
- Graphic Design – Design eye-catching brochures, flyers, mailers and posters that will excite people about VHC programs and events.
- Office Administration – Help us stay on top of things and organized and by assisting with data entry, envelope stuffing and whatever else needs doing.
- Photography – Capture images of VHC in action that will be used on social media and in collateral materials.
- Videography – Film VHC happenings on video and edit to produce professional looking segments that we can use in presentations and online to help us tell our story.
- Website Design and Maintenance – Keep our online presence accurate and engaging by helping with web page creation and website maintenance.

If you have a special talent that's not listed above, let us know about it by emailing us at: volunteer@venturahillsides.org.
