

Volt Luxembourg looks forward to next steps

We are very pleased to announce that Damian Boeselager has been elected in Germany as Volt's first MEP. We'd like to thank all people who've cast their votes for us, and assure them that they will be represented and the vision they share will be fought for in parliament by Mr Boeselager. A Volt MEP anywhere in Europe is an MEP for us all.

We couldn't be more proud of what we've achieved these elections - Europe wide and in Luxembourg. Given the time and resources, we have created an unique precedent, on which we will build upon, starting from tomorrow.

People from across the broad spectrum of different communities in Luxembourg have supported us throughout this campaign, and we have started as we mean to go on - in breaking down barriers between communities, and ensuring anyone who wants to participate in the political space can do so.

We set ourselves high expectations, and the fact that we are standing here today shows we have more than exceeded them. While we would love to be sending an Volt MEP to Brussels from Luxembourg, the issues we want to resolve will continue to be discussed and debated even after this campaign in the public sphere - regardless of the election result.

In terms of future political engagement, we strongly believe that change in politics shouldn't be limited to an election campaign, and we will continue to build a grass-roots movement of people passionate about change not only here in Luxembourg but across Europe. This is what we mean when we say we are Volt, we are Europe.

We aim also to participate at local, legislative, and European elections.

We heartily congratulate all of the elected MEPs that are representing Luxembourg for the next five years. We'd ask them not only to think about what future they want for themselves, but also the future they want to guarantee for generations to come - in terms of resolving issues relating to sustainability, climate change, education, inequality, migration, and discrimination.

Once again, thank you so much to those who have trusted us, supported us, and believed in us - this is just the beginning.
