

Abe Ng is the founder and CEO of Sushi Maki - South Florida's award-winning leader in innovative Japanese cuisine serving fresh, premium quality fare in a relaxed, modern and out-of-the-box environments (restaurants, airports, sports arenas, universities and gourmet markets) throughout Miami Dade, Broward and Palm Beach County. In this role, he oversees the strategic development and management of the 22 locations owned and operated under the Sushi Maki and Canton Chinese brand names, and is a partner with Whole Foods Markets for sushi stations in the South Florida Region stores.

A Miami native, Ng (pronounced "ing") serves on various boards, including the Greater Miami Convention and Visitor Bureau, National Christian Foundation, Big Brothers Big Sisters Miami, the Cornell University Hospitality Entrepreneurship Advisory Board and the Florida Restaurant Association. Abe was recognized as one of the Miami Herald's 2011 20

Under 40 and the South Florida Business Journal's 2010 40 Under 40. Abe was recently honored as Ultimate CEO by the South Florida Business Journal and in 2015 was a regional finalist for the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year award.

Abe, the former chapter chair for YPO Miami, is a graduate of the Cornell University, School of Hotel Administration ('95) and the Owner/President Manager program at the Harvard Business School. He currently lives in Miami with his wife Christina and their three children ages 13, 11 and 9.

