Most school librarians have the same goal . They can play a strong collaborative role in developing classroom libraries.A school librarian may strongly advocate for students to choose their own reading, pointing to studies showing that choice raise literacy skills; librarians also aim to build lifelong reading habits.Even if funding for collaboration is huge, librarians can find themselves struggling to create a passionate literate culture where there’s pressure to boost test scores. My Library media specialist not only helps us with those that are listed but she also has a strong passion to help us emotionally , Something like a Counselor . We have group meetings. She also plans days for us to have activities when special guest speakers come in and talk to us about life itself or some time they come and we meet them and they talk to us . My Librarian is strong on communication. She makes sure that we are on track with grades and making sure that we are okay . She makes us feel comfortable to talk to her and also makes us feel safe.She aims for us to be able to open up to her .
