

Western Sydney/Nepean Blue Mountains District

Family and Community Services Targeted Earlier Intervention Reform - An update from Youth Action.

Youth Action is committed to representing both members and the young people of NSW in the FaCS TEI reforms. We have been working hard to connect with all districts to try and improve reform outcomes since they began in 2015.

As a Youth Action member, we want to make sure you know what is happening with the TEI reforms. We aim to bring you accurate information as it becomes available to us, communicate with you regularly, and contribute to the reform in ways that improve the system overall. The journey so far has been long and complicated, but some of the bigger parts of our involvement have included:

- Formal submissions and feedback to FaCS on key points in the TEI process
- Advocacy to all levels of FaCS, reflecting the needs of young people and the importance of youth services
- Advocacy to Minister Goward to secure continuity of funding to avoid de-stabilising the sector
- Participation in the TEI Central Council
- Travelling the state to participate in the planning and consultation processes of every district, to monitor the quality of local implementation
- Providing ongoing feedback and advice to districts and the central office team
- Providing ongoing advice to ARTD consultants in planning a Sector Assistance Strategy
- Undertaking a series of District Visits at the end of 2016, in order to continue basing our advocacy in the voices of our members.

This district update is a collation of all we know about the TEI process in your area. We hope it helps you to remain engaged, plan, and influence outcomes locally.

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Katie Acheson".

Katie Acheson

CEO - Youth Action

What has already happened

Consultation and collaboration (Sept 2015 - Jan 2016) >
District Forums Sept - Oct 2015	Feedback >
State wide surveys Aug - Oct 2015	Release District forum feedback Nov 2015	Launch >	Scope of reform >	Service design planning >
Consultation with Aboriginal stakeholders Sept - Nov 2015	Release reform consultation report Mar 2016	Launch consultation report Mar 2016	Test reform directions Mar - May 2016	Service systems planning in districts Oct 2016 - June 2017
Consultation with clients and service users Oct - Dec 2015			Release program reform directions paper July 2016	Transition planning and implementation July 2017
Forum with experts Jan 2016

FaCS undertook extensive consultation with community and service users, culminating in the Reform Consultation Summary Report, which was released in April 2016, and The Program Reform Directions Paper released in August 2016.

For up-to-date information, watch the TEI Reform website and sign up to receive our updates.

What's happening now: Service Design Planning

→ Stage 1	Information sessions	Conducted by FaCS staff and open to all services.	Completed
→ Stage 2	Needs analysis	Facilitated workshops, surveys, data gathering, and/or meetings to determine localised needs and identify gaps.	Completed
→ Stage 3	District priorities	Working with services to define the local priorities from the identified needs. Also identify local application of state-wide priorities.	Completed
→ Stage 4	Agency capability assessments	Formalised reporting to FaCS on contractors' ability to meet district priorities.	Commenced
→ Stage 5	Matching	One-on-one negotiation with FaCS Commissioning Officers to match local needs to service capability.	Not yet started
→ Stage 6	Transition plans	Formal contract variance outlining how services will deliver newly defined outcomes.	Not yet started
→ Stage 7	Monitoring and evaluation	Outcomes achieved under transition plans monitored for approval to rollover contract beyond 2020.	Not yet started

What does this mean for Western Sydney/Nepean Blue Mountains?

Information sessions - Information sessions have been held around this district since mid 2016. From those sessions, working parties were developed in 5 geographically central locations. Those working parties undertook cluster planning sessions and have gathered local data. The 5 working parties were condensed to 3 in July 2017. Planning for TEI has been heavily linked to the Linker project which is being run concurrently in the district. This has in some cases caused confusion for services.

District priorities - District Priorities for this district are being developed by the 3 (was 5) working groups in consultation with FaCS Commissioning & Planning staff. The list of priorities is currently extensive and broad in nature. Further consultations are expected to further condense and focus these priorities.

Agency Capability Assessments - These have not been sent out to currently contracted services as yet, although Youth Action has been told that this will happen very soon. Services will be asked to complete these assessments based on their knowledge of the local service environment discussed at the planning sessions.

What's next for Western Sydney/Nepean Blue Mountains?

Contract negotiations and Transition Plans - Between October 2017 and June 2018, TEI service providers will need to negotiate new TEI contracts. The new contracts will have detailed information on what your service has agreed to deliver and will include, funding levels, service activities, geographic coverage, target groups, service levels and outcomes. The contract will include a Transition Plan showing how you will move from current service provision to the new program that will start on 1st July 2018. Reviews of the Transition Plan will take place in March 2019 and December 2020.

Prepare for negotiations - Ensure your service has a copy of the finalised and approved district priorities before commencing negotiations with FaCS on possible changes to your service contract. Also be aware of the information you submit in the Agency Capability Assessment regarding your capacity to shift your delivery if required, and the likely impacts changes may have in creating service system gaps. Youth Action will provide support and advice to members during this time so stay in touch and let us know how we can help.

Training & upskilling staff - TEI reform will undoubtedly bring changes to the way your service works with your clients, and perhaps even who those clients are. Youth Action will continue to provide our members access to training and resources in evidence based practice, theory of change modelling, supporting complex clients and increasing cultural competency. Our 2017 Youth Work Conference, 25/26 October, is also centered around these themes, so make sure you are there - Register Now.

Local governance and Central Council influence - We currently have concerns regarding the role of the TEI Central Council in providing oversight of district processes. FaCS have told us that they are drafting a clarification of the decision-making process at FaCS Central Council and its impact on implementation of TEI at District level. We will inform you of these decisions as soon as we are able.

Sector Assistance Strategy - A report is being finalised by ARTD consultants to guide the allocation of Sector Assistance funds. Youth Action have some concerns with the Sector Assistance Strategy process, the involvement of the peaks and how it's going to assist services. We will keep you updated on this Strategy as we learn more.

Who to contact

Western Sydney/Nepean Blue Mountains District
Commissioning & Planning Manager

To negotiate transition plans or to clarify district priorities

Claudia Vianello

02 9407 1751

claudia.vianello@facns.nsw.gov.au

Youth Action

For information, sector assistance or advocacy

Dean Williamson

02 8354 3700

dean@youthaction.org.au